

CHARLIE BIRGER GETS DELAY IN EXECUTION

Gang Leader's Petition for Writ of Error Granted by Illinois Supreme Court.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 7.—
The death by hanging of Charlie Birger, Southern Illinois gang leader, who was to go to the gallows in Franklin County, Oct. 15,
a week from tomorrow, will be postponed through an action of the Supreme Court which today granted his petition for a writ of error and supersedeas.

This action automatically delays
the execution until the Supreme Court shall have time to pass on 22 reasons given by Attorney
Charles A. Karch of East St. Louis,
why the case should be reviewed by the higher court.

Karch cited among other things
in his brief that Birger could not get a fair trial in Franklin County,
where he was convicted, because of an inflamed public opinion, and the trial court should have granted
a change of venue, which was denied. He also cited as a principal error the refusal of the trial court to grant Birger a separate trial from Art Newman and Ray Hyland, co-conspirators with Birger in the murder of Mayor Joe Adams.

Newman and Hyland were sentenced to life imprisonment. A similar sentence was imposed on Harry A. Thomason, Birger's gangster, who entered a plea of guilty and turned State's evidence against the others.

Neither Birger, Newman nor Hyland took the witness stand and let the case go to the jury without a defense, other than the argument by their attorneys.

The court denied a similar notion by attorneys for James Hayes, sentenced to hang Oct. 16 for a Saugamon County murder.

CHURCHMEN WILL ASK BAKER TO END COUNTY GAMBLING

To Charge That Two Dog
Race Tracks and Gaming Resorts Are Violating State Laws.

PRECEDENT SET BY FOLK TO BE CITED

Governor to Be Urged to Send Attorney-General to Investigate Conditions
Outside City.

Five hundred ministers and Sunday school superintendents of Protestant Evangelical Churches in St.
Louis and St. Louis County, belonging to the Church Federation,
have been asked to write to Gov.
Baker to urge action by the State to close two dog racing tracks and other gambling establishments in the county.

The precedent set by Gov. Folk a quarter of a century ago, in sending city police to close the Delmar horse race track is cited to the Governor. A sample letter to the Governor was sent to the ministers and Sunday school heads, who were asked to address the Chief Executive in similar vein and to have at least five members of each congregation do likewise. Dr. George B. Marshall, social service secretary of the Church Federation, urged them to "express opposition to the demoralizing gambling situation."

Text of Sample Letter.
Text of sample letter to the Governor follows:

"Confirming the action of the meeting of the Ministerial Alliance held on Sept. 26, I desire to protest earnestly against the continued existence of the gambling resorts
now existing in St. Louis County, where, as we are reliably informed, four open and notorious gambling dens are operating in violation of the law and where two dog race tracks are operating nightly. The receipts at each track are reported by the press as upwards of $30,000 per night. In fact, at one track the receipts are so large as to enable the promoters to give away a refrigerator and a handsome new automobile twice a week to their patrons.

"This continued drain upon the finances of our community is impoverishing the people and depriving merchants, and other businesses and institutions of their rightful patronage. The gambler must pay cash as he goes. Then to keep his family from want, the merchants
must extend credit, often at a loss.
This continued violation of the law is teaching our young men and women to gamble. Many holding positions of trust have been led to steal from their employers and to deprive their families of needed support.

Clies Gov. Folk's Action.
"We, therefore, urge you, dear
Governor, to instruct the Attorney-General to come to St. Louis County in person or by representative and to keep a representative on the ground until every gambling
den and race track has been closed.
You have precedents for this in the actions of Gov. Folk, who sent the police force of St. Louis to close the race track in the county.
Also, the action of Gov. Hyde in sending Attorney-General Barrett to St. Louis County in 1923 to put an end to gambling. We cannot hope for relief from the present law enforcement officers of St.
Louis County and, therefore, appeal to you to give this your most earnest consideration and prompt attention."

The Rev. Dr. Arthur H. Armstrong, executive secretary of the Church Federation, expressed belief that at least half of the ministers and Sunday school superintendents and many congregation
members would write to Gov. Baker.
The Ministerial Alliance action referred to in the letter was a resolution calling on the public,
the churches, the press and the Legislature to end "this orgy"
of gambling, with communications to the Governor.

DES PERES SEWER JOB TO $2,296,000 BIDDER

St. Paul, Minn., Firm, Next to Lowest Proposal for Park
Work, Gents Contract.

The Board of Public Service today awarded the contract for the Des Peres sewer construction job,
not to the lowest bidder, but to the concern making the next to the lowest bid, A. Guthrie & Co., Inc., of St. Paul, Minn. Its bid was $2,296,057.06. The lowest bid was that of the Whitmire Construction
Co. of Kansas City, for $2,277-
217.49, the difference being $18-839.57. Other bids ranged up to a figure above $3,000,000.

President Kinsey of the board
made the award in order to secure which the board acted, by unanimous vote, in choosing a higher bidder over the lowest one. He stated, in a written report, that, in his opinion, neither one could make more than a small profit under favorable conditions, and that for this reason he inquired into their records and resources, wishing to make as sure as possible that the work would be done without delay.

His inquiries, he said, showed that the Whitmire company was a young concern with little capital,
but well backed in this particular undertaking, and that it had to its credit some good work, but not of a magnitude to insure success in building "probably the largest sewer in the world." Whether the company's backers would be ready to take a loss, in case of unfavorable conditions, he was not sure.

He found that the Guthrie concern does a large business, has extensive resources, and handles
other large jobs, and he concluded that it could absorb a loss, if one should occur, more readily than the other firm. The company's national reputation, Kinsey said,
would hardly permit it to throw
over an unprofitable job.

The city suffered a considerable loss and delay through the failure of a contracting firm, lowest bidder on the contract for the Linden-wood section of the Des Peres
work, to go through with its contract after weather conditions destroyed its hope of profit.

Charles Merlo, 31 years old, 4643

fractured skull suffered last night
when he was struck by an automobile in front of 7550 North Broadway. The driver of the auto
did not stop.

Merlo was repairing an auto tire
for a friend whose machine was parked in the street. A Chevrolet coupe, traveling north at high speed, cut close to the parked machine and knocked Merlo to the street, witnesses said. After pausing a moment the driver put on speed and disappeared.

A penitentiary sentence of three years was given Willis Hamler, a Negro, of 2617 Lawton boulevard,
by Circuit Judge Percy today,
after Hamler had entered a plea of guilty of having taken an automobile without the owner's consent. Hamler previously had served a prison sentence for grand larceny. An habitual criminal charge, which also had been lodged against him, was dismissed.

Hamler was charged with having taken the automobile of Dower
Eddy of 626 West Parkway place from a public garage where Ham-ler was working at the time.

LOAN COMPANIES URGED TO SHOW LENIENCY

Better Business Bureau Makes
Plea for Debtors Who Lost Property in Tornado.

Loan companies in St. Louis are asked by the Better Business Bureau to deal leniently with tornado victims. Arrangements are in progress to hold a meeting to determine some plan to minimize litigation.

"Some of the tornado victims
have come to the Better Business Bureau to explain their predicament," said Dwight L. Holmes, manager of the bureau's financial division.
He wrote to 30 representative small loan companies.

"They have mortgaged their household goods in order to secure a loan. The tornado has either partly or totally destroyed their mortgaged property and the sufferers fear the loan companies to which they are indebted will start legal proceedings against them. In cases in which all the possessions of these people have been destroyed it is going to be a problem
for them to meet payments promptly."

"We have consistently expressed our belief that legitimate loan companies will act fairly in this crisis and it has occurred to us that possibly some good can be accomplished if the loan companies and the Better Business Bureau should get together for a conference on this situation in the next few days. The results of the conference can be turned over to the newspaper in order that the public may know of the desire of the loan companies to render a discussing service in the rehabilitation
work that is so vitally necessary."

PLANS FOR TORNADO BENEFIT TO BE COMPLETED TOMORROW

All Civic and Professional Organizations Asked to Send Representatives to Meeting.

Plans for a benefit theatrical performance to be given at the Coliseum Friday, Oct. 21, by the Municipal Theater Association in conjunction with the St. Louis Theater Managers' Association, to raise funds to assist in the relief
and rehabilitation of tornado sufferers, will be perfected at a meeting at 10 a. m. tomorrow at the American Theater. All civic and professional organizations have been invited to send a representative to the meeting.

Under present arrangements the Coliseum performance will be the only one which will have the support of the Theater Managers' Association. The organization includes the American, Schubert-
Hall, Orpheum, St. Louis, Grant Opera, Ho-Joe, Garrick, Liberty
Music Hall, Empress, Gayety and Municipal Opera. All have pledged the talent appearing at the various theaters at the time of the benefit. A special number featuring the Municipal Opera chorus will be on the program.

The Citizens' Red Cross Tornado
Relief Committee has given its approval to the performance and all funds will be turned over to the St. Louis Chapter of the American Red Cross. The sale of tickets will be supervised by a special com-tee of the Municipal Theater Association composed of Arthur Sie-gel, Thomas Lovelace, M. E. Holderness and Charles Talbert. Walter B. Weisenburger, treasurer of the Municipal Opera, will be custodian of all moneys realized from the sale of tickets.

David E. Russell, manager of the Municipal Opera, will arrange and direct the Coliseum program.
He says enough talent already was assured to make the event the most outstanding performance of its kind ever presented in this city.

HIGH WIND, RAIN DO SOME DAMAGE, MERCURY FALLS

Light and Power Service Again Interrupted in Spots—Man Is Fatally Injured by Train.

A heavy wind and rainstorm struck St. Louis and vicinity last night, reviving memories of the tornado which preceded it by a week.

In St. Louis the wind attained a maximum velocity of 39 miles an hour, as registered at 7:40 p. m. at the Weather Bureau on top of the Railway Exchange Building. The wind may have been stronger elsewhere.

Rainfall was 1.58 inches for the 24-hour period ending 7 a. m. today, most of it coming in the three hours starting at 7 o'clock last night.

Falling Pole Smashes Auto.

storm, falling 14 degrees from 7
to 5 o'clock last night. It was 50 at 7 a. m. today, a drop of 25 since 3 p. m. yesterday.

The wind and rain were interspered with terrific thunder and lightning. The clear service was increased the discomfort of residents remaining in the tornado zone.

Dog Rats at Ramona Park were called off because of the storm,
driving with lightning struck a tree, felling it across the track.

Rain, seeping through cables,
short-circuited 1302 telephones, chiefly in the tornado area. There are now 5712 telephones out of order in and around the tornado zone.

A Marcus avenue street car was struck by lightning at Marcus and Natural Bridge avenues. Edward M. Hodges, motorman, escaped injury.

There were no power lines.
Electric light and power service in St. Louis and East St. Louis was interrupted in spots, when poles
and wires were bent and broken.

Workmen engaged in repairing poles and wires damaged by the tornado had their labors increased.

In East St. Louis, 16 poles fell on State street, between Eleventh and Fifteenth streets, and six poles on Broadway, between Eighth and Tenth streets. Automobiles parked at the curb were crushed in the faller wires. Fred Hunsfeld, 101 North Tenth street, seated in his car, was injured slightly when a pole smashed the car top.

Man Fatally Injured.
Twenty blocks east of the mainline St. Louis downtown district, where without street lights all night,
lights in buildings also went out,
but were restored within a few hours.

Street cars in East St. Louis were rerouted over some streets
today, and busses were supplementing regular service. Normal transportation service may be restored by tonight.

At the height of the storm an unidentified man about 42 years old was fatally injured when struck by a freight train at Eighth street and the Louisville & Nashville tracks.

NEGRO PISTOL TONER GIVEN TWO YEARS, MAXIMUM TERM.
James Fitzgerald Is Sentenced to the Penitentiary on Plea of Guilty.

James Fitzgerald, a Negro of 3416 Lawton boulevard, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary on his plea of guilty to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, before Circuit Judge Percy today. A habitual criminal charge, based primarily on the fact that Fitzgerald had served a penitentiary term for robbery, was waived, upon his decision to make the plea.

The sentence on the concealed weapon charge is the maximum provided by the State laws. Fitzgerald was arrested Aug. 28 on Eads Bridge, after policemen who searched him, found a pistol in his pocket.

Motor Cycle Patrolman James

TORNADO'S EFFECT ON BUSINESS SLIGHT

Reaction on General Condition in City Rather Favorable Than Harmful.

Views of industrial leaders on the effect of the tornado on business, if any, indicate the reaction more likely will be favorable than harmful.

The quick and magnificent response of the city to the appeal for relief funds is pointed to as an excellent indication of the prosperity and stability of the city.

Maurice J. Cassidy, secretary of the Building Trades Council: "Unemployment had become a serious problem in the building trades. Approximately 7500 men were idle in St. Louis in these trades and the prospects were that there would be much less building than usual during the fall and winter months, always slack time, anyway."

Provides Work for Many.
"The work which will be provided by the rebuilding and repairing of property destroyed or damaged in the tornado, with such other building as there is, will provide work for nearly all, if not all, the men in the building trades. It will not do more than that, however, and no labor from outside of St. Louis will be needed."

"I estimate that it will take nearly a year to repair the damage done by the storm, and that labor in the building trades will be fairly well employed for that length of time."

R. L. Murphy, executive secretary of the Master Builders' Association: "Building operations will be stimulated by the storm, of course, but there will be very little big building. It will be mostly repair work, which will be undertaken by the smaller contractors. In the aggregate, however, it will amount to a very considerable sum—several million dollars. The dealers in building supplies and labor will receive the greater help from the condition existing."

Helps Business in Some Ways.
Frank M. Mayfield, president of the Associated Retailers: "I do not believe there will be any perceptible effect on business by the tornado. In some lines of retail business there may be stimulation because of the requirements for such necessities as clothing and furniture, while in others, those dealing in luxuries, there probably will be less buying. A family with only so much money to spend is more likely to buy the necessities than the luxuries."

"There has been no stoppage of production in St. Louis, and no payrolls have been stopped. The man who had a job before the tornado still has it, and in fact, the rebuilding will provide jobs for many who had none. To this extent business probably will be helped. I cannot see that business conditions can improve much through such a disaster, and I hardly think that the effect will be perceptible in the year's business."

Parallel in Flood Situation.
Ernest W. Stix, president of Rice-Stix Dry Goods Co., a wholesaler: "While one does not like to discuss business advantage that may come from disaster in which many lives were lost, I believe that business conditions in St. Louis will be better this year than a year ago, and I justify my opinion by the experience of the country south of us after the Mississippi flood. In many of the flooded districts our business was better than it had been before."

"After the shock of the disaster, any American community readjusts itself and finds the money to replace in better condition the property destroyed. Funds come from the insurance companies, from the Red Cross through the sympathy and generosity of those who have not suffered losses, and from the owners of property who are able by themselves to restore it."

"The wholesale business is good. The larger portion of the business of St. Louis wholesale dealers, of course, comes from outside the city, though this is a big market in itself. We look for a good fall business."

No Business Possibilities.
Elmer Donnell, managing director of the Associated Industries, the members of which include manufacturers and men in virtually all lines of business: "Industry with very few exceptions was not injured to any great extent by the recent St. Louis storm, and only one or two plants were temporarily forced to shut down until their holdings and machinery may be replaced."

"Millions of dollars will be paid out by the insurance companies for damages sustained, and new buildings will give employment to many hundreds of men during the reconstruction period. The tremendous amount of money contributed to the Red Cross in the short period since the storm is evidence that the people of St. Louis are in a prosperous condition."

"While the sympathy of our people goes out to those families which suffered from the St. Louis storm and the disastrous floods along the Mississippi River, the final effect of these catastrophes will not be such as to create a feeling of pessimism in the business world. In fact, reports coming to the Associated Industries from all over the State reflect exactly the opposite situation."

Farmers Benefit.
"The floods this summer materially affected the territory in Southeast Missouri and the states along the Mississippi River, but the whole Mississippi Valley has staged a wonderful comeback and business is rapidly approaching

GENERAL ELECTRIC AND CITY ARRANGE TRADE

Streets to Be Vacated in Company's Site in Return for Strips of Land.

A trade has been agreed to between officials of the city and the General Electric Co., whereby the city will vacate all streets and alleys in the company's recently purchased 32-acre plant site in northwest St. Louis and some contiguous streets, and the company will donate parts of its site so the city can carry Goodfellow avenue northward past Bellefontaine Cemetery as a major thoroughfare.

The city will vacate old Goodfellow avenue between Stratford and Birchler streets (about one block); Strödtmann avenue between old Goodfellow and the new Goodfellow cutoff (a blind end street about 75 feet long); and Birchler avenue between Partridge and Goodfellow. The total area of the concessions to the company is 91,130 square feet. Goodfellow avenue is the only one useful as a thoroughfare, and the only one with any sort of pavement. The others are unfrequented dirt roads.

The streets and alleys in the factory site total 177,395 square feet. They are only so-called "paper" streets. The site now is a rolling pastureland. It has been the custom of the city to vacate "paper" streets and alleys to purchasers of large factory sites without cost to the industry.

General Electric, in return, agrees to give the City strips from its site along Goodfellow, Stratford and Birchler streets to permit future widening of those streets. It also agrees to accept from the City for a wide swath to straighten Goodfellow avenue, in accordance with the City Plan Commission's major street plan. The compensation it was awarded for a much smaller corner at Stratford and old Goodfellow which the City had condemned for the purpose.

The total area dedicated by the company to the city is 95,398 square feet. The company agrees that if it does not utilize its site for a factory that it will return to the city title to the paper streets and alleys which the city agrees to vacate.

It is expected the trade will be submitted to the Board of Aldermen in an ordinance today.

Philippines Give $50 for Relief.
Members of the St. Louis Filipino Circle, 2809 Olive street, yesterday turned over to the Post-Dispatch $50, to be forwarded to the Red Cross tornado relief fund. The organization consists of 84 natives of the Philippine Islands who are studying at Washington and St. Louis Universities. Most of them have been in this country only two or three years.

TORNADO'S EFFECT ON CITY'S BUSINESS IS ONLY SLIGHT

normal. The belated summer with extreme heat in September meant millions to the agricultural districts, as the crops which appeared lost in August recuperated to such an extent that the corn and cotton will reach a much greater production and bring higher prices than was anticipated.

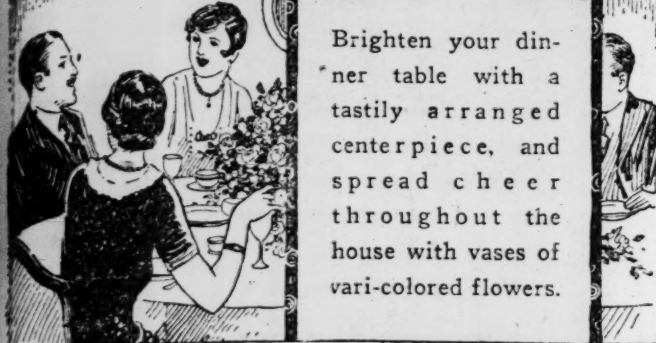

"An analysis of the employment situation in general is very favorable, especially in the industrial centers in the State. The shoe industry, which is the largest single manufacturing industry in St. Louis, may be considered a good barometer of business conditions. Most of the local plants are working at full capacity with splendid prospects for a material increase in business during the next year."

"In discussing the matter with a prominent shoe manufacturer I got a new and interesting angle in regard to conditions which prevail in this trade territory. 'The business men in the South,' he said, 'are true Americans and loyal to their home districts. They will not move because of the flood as might be the case if the population were largely composed of a foreign element. The Southerners who were affected by the flood are sticking to the job and will make a strenuous effort to bring conditions back to normal. The manufacturers and jobbers, recognizing this fact, are willingly extending credit to the merchants of the South, and the advance orders now being received indicate that business conditions in 1928 will be better than during the past year.'

Where Congress Can Help.
"It is essential that the business interests and the public at large in Missouri urge upon the Missouri members of Congress their active support of legislation providing for large appropriations for flood control."

At recent conference of the Northeast and Northwest Missouri Chambers of Commerce attended by representatives of the Associated Industries discussions of business conditions gave evidence that Northern Missouri is looking forward to a greater prosperity in 1928 than has been its fortune in 1927.

"As a rule the period prior to a presidential election is usually dull, but the coming year will, without doubt, prove an exception and in my opinion the outlook for material increase in business and continued prosperity of all the people is much better than it was at this time last year."

Now, a New Type Sock
That Gives 3 to 4 Times More Wear

The unprecedented popularity for these smart silk socks that give 3 to 4 times more wear causes us to open a new men's section
featuring Holeproof Ex Toe Hosiery.

Just at the tip and over the top of the toe a special wear-resisting thread is woven. This small spot is called the Ex Toe and multiplies wear 3 to 4 times. Yet it is hidden to the eyes. The foot itself cannot feel it.

And because this feature follows a newly discovered and scientific principle of knitting wear it multiplies 3 to 4 times.

35c—3 for $1

Very fine grade of medium or light weight mercerized lises.

extra-fine appearance.

latively sheer; all colors.

Holeproof besides the smart plain Ex toe colors, offers you a wide variety of fancy patterns. Many are replicas of imported patterns for which you would pay several times the price.

168 ALIENS AWAITING DEPORTATION FROM U.S.

50 Women Among Prisoners Taken to Ellis Island in Nation-Wide Roundup.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch, NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—One hundred and sixty-eight "undesirable aliens" were landed on Ellis Island yesterday morning for deportation. Inspector Gates L. Rapp of the immigration service at Washington, was in charge of the party, and said it was the beginning of a new drive to rid the country of thousands of aliens known to be in the United States illegally.

It was the biggest number to reach Ellis Island in many months and Commissioner Benjamin M. Day and Dr. William Schlaer, head of the Ellis Island deporting division, were kept busy until after office hours last night. There were about 80 women among the prisoners. Some of them were not yet out of their teens but had been found delinquent in American standards of morality. Other women were victims of white slavery, which has increased to such an extent recently that the League of Nations has taken the matter under consideration.

Some of the younger women in the immigration net were persons of education. Indeed, not a few of them were being deported, not for any moral turpitude, but for evading inspection on the borders, or for having overstayed their time as visitors. Others, more elderly, had simply become public charges. There were 26 insane aliens in the group.

"There are no anarchists in the lot," said Rapp, "and, so far as I know none of these aliens was arrested for demonstrations in sympathy with Sacco and Vanzetti. It is possible some of them may have landed in prison for agitation. There are some scattered throughout the country awaiting deportation for that sort of thing."

He estimated that there were between 1,000,000 and 3,000,000 border jumpers in the country.

SAVES WOMAN 5 STORIES UP

Fireman Seizes Patient Suspended from Window by Sister.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Passers-by halted in a Bronx street yesterday when the screams of a woman leaning from a fifth floor apartment window holding another suspended over the street by her heels, drew their eyes. The passers-by soon grew to a crowd of 300 helpless persons. A fireman came around the corner, and went into the apartment house. Appearing at a fourth floor window, he reached out and knotted his fingers in the suspended woman's hair. She swung into his grasp as the little woman at the window collapsed. Fireman Andrew McManis hauled in Gustie Posner, 42 years old, recently returned from a sanitarium, and called an ambulance for her sister Pearl, who had caught her heels as she tried to dive from the window.

DAYS OF ADVENTURE FOR THIS BOY SCOUT

Gorman Bartay, 14, Climbed Rope to Rescue Baby, as Incident of Relief Work.

Scout Gorman Bartay of Troop 72 is one of the alert Boy Scouts who dash briskly in and out of the crowded Red Cross tornado relief headquarters in the Lindell cut-off, carrying messages, directing storm sufferers and darting to far corners of the city on errands. Since the tornado last Thursday, he has slept at home one night, part of another night and the rest of the time on lawns or not at all. He has aided injured persons, directed traffic, delivered telegrams, washed dishes, delivered food, served as office boy around headquarters, rescued a baby, helped clear away debris and performed other tasks that made the Scouts the Jack-of-all-trades of the relief force.

Scout Bartay, who is 14 years old and lives at 1803 Carr street, ceased his cheerful calls of "this way, lady," "this way, Mister," at Red Cross headquarters today long enough to tell a Post-Dispatch reporter his story, typical of that of scores of Boy Scouts who were enrolled for relief work.

Reported Without Call. "Nobody told us we were needed," Scout Bartay related. "We just heard there had been a tornado and beat it for the storm district as soon as school was out. A band of us collected in 4000 block on Washington about 4 o'clock the afternoon of the tornado. We started up Washington avenue and helped people to get out of their wrecked houses and offered first aid to some of them who looked like they needed it."

"We directed traffic for a while and then helped people to find places to sleep for the night. We kept this up until 4 o'clock the next morning. Then we slept on the lawn of a church at 4200 Washington avenue until 8 o'clock. We went to Central High, where they were digging in the ruins and stayed there a while, then beat it back to school. I go to the Franklin Intermediate at Nineteenth and Franklin. All the scouts in our school were called out for relief duty at 10 o'clock Friday morning. We hurried to Red Cross headquarters at Eighth and Olive street and then went to temporary headquarters at 2500 Vandeventer. The rest of the day we spent clearing up the streets. We cut down limbs of trees sticking out into the street and blocking traffic."

Slept on Lawn Again.

"About 5 o'clock in the afternoon, a bunch of us took another snooze on the church lawns. We got up at 8 o'clock Friday night and directed traffic most of the night until the militia relieved us at 4 o'clock in the morning."

"We went home but came back to Red Cross headquarters about 7 o'clock Saturday morning. All that day I delivered messages and ran errands for the Red Cross. Then our bunch slept on the church lawn for a few hours and got up early to direct traffic again."

"All day Sunday I was on a truck helping to move furniture out of the storm district. About 10 o'clock Sunday night we went home and I slept there for the first time since the tornado. Monday I delivered Western Union telegrams from 8 o'clock in the morning until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Alone I delivered 63 messages and they sent me to all parts of the city, some of 'em out to the county. After that I went to Red Cross headquarters and stayed there till midnight. We didn't sleep that night at all. We directed traffic until 4 o'clock in the morning and then a bunch of us bought hot dogs and ate and talked until 5 o'clock, directed traffic some more, and then went to school and got excused at 10 o'clock. Then we went to Red Cross headquarters."

"All that night we worked at Moolah Temple, waiting on table and helping in the kitchen. After breakfast we went back to headquarters and stayed there until midnight."

Scout Bartay pulled out a dirty bit of typewritten paper, declaring that for 12 hours he had been "a very efficient and willing worker and his services have been very much appreciated" at Moolah Temple.

Climbed Rope to Rescue Baby.

"Wednesday night I slept at home, then went back to Red Cross headquarters. I'm still there. "This has been a lot of fun. I wouldn't have missed it for anything. I nearly got run over while I was directing traffic and some of those guys cursed us out and tried to act big, but we bawled 'em right back. I wouldn't have missed the adventures, like pulling the baby out of a second story right after the storm. We had to climb up on a rope. After we got the baby down, we showed the mother how to get down the back way."

"Some of 'em told us to mind our own business, but most of the people appreciated our services and some offered us money."

Scout Bartay is going back to school next Monday. Most of his companions returned to their studies several days ago.

Patsy Miller Operated On.

By the Associated Press. HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 7.—Patsy Ruth Miller, film actress, of St. Louis, underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Hollywood Hospital Wednesday night. Dr. William Branch, who performed the operation, said Miss Miller's condition was satisfactory.

Raise $1,850,000 for Its Work.LEADERS LOOK FOR GENERAL RESPONSEAnticipate No Difficulty
Though Their Appeal Follows on Heels of That for Tornado Refugees.Community Fund officers, having determined to carry out their annual money-raising campaign as usual, although it will follow soon after the Red Cross tornado relief collection, think they can raise the $1,850,000 for city and county
charities without serious difficulty.
Community Fund subscriptions are payable in quarterly installments
through the year.The Community Fund campaign will begin Oct. 24 and end Nov. 3.
The dates were fixed several days ago but announcement of it was withheld temporarily to avoid interference with the Red Cross collections. The Red Cross in a week has collected nearly three-quarters of a million for tornado relief.Annually volunteer solicitors canvass the community for the money necessary to carry on the charitable and philanthropic work of about 50 agencies in city and county. A remarkable thing about the Red Cross disaster fund, aside from the speed with which it is coming in, is that it has been contributed spontaneously, without the employment of solicitors, and almost entirely as the result of newspaper publicity.Alfred Fairbank, chairman of the Community Fund Campaign Committee and vice chairman of the Red Cross Disaster Relief Committee, thinks that the raising of the tornado relief fund will make easier collection of the Community Fund, if it has any effect.
Ernest Wells, general chairman of the Community Fund, concurred
in this view and remarked that emergency relief in such a disaster
as the present can be handled properly only through existing agencies which belong to the Community Fund, including the Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Provident Association and hospitals."Community Fund institutions," said Fairbank, "are year-round
services that must be maintained.
St. Louis is meeting the tornado emergency in a characteristically
thorough fashion, and we are confident it will be just as thorough in providing for the fund agencies."In an address before the Rotary Club luncheon at Hotel Statler yesterday, Fairbank urged St. Louisans not to forget the Community Fund's needs. A plan of disaster relief, worked out two years ago,
had functioned perfectly, he declared. "At the most," he added,
"15,000 persons will need it up as a result of the tornado. But the agencies of the Community Fund aid many times that number in the course of a year. We must not allow the campaign to fail."

RIVERS UNUSUALLY HIGH

IN SURROUNDING COUNTRY

Osage, in southwestern Missouri,
Only One in Flood: Mississippi's Stage 23.3 Feet.All rivers in the country surrounding St. Louis are at unusually high stages for this season, due to the heavy rains recently, but only one, the Osage, in southwestern Missouri, is in flood.The Mississippi at St. Louis this morning had a stage of 23.3 feet,
the same as yesterday, although it dropped a trifle last night, only to rise again. Flood stage here is 29 feet. A decline is likely. The Missouri likewise is falling below
Kansas City and is below flood stage everywhere, but nevertheless some extremely low spots along the banks have been inundated. The Illinois is rising and is nearly bank-ful, but will not go into flood. Its high stage, however, is hampering levee repair work.The Osage will continue to rise
for 24 hours. At Osceola, Mo., where flood stage is 29 feet, it was 24.2 feet this morning, and at Warsaw, Mo., with flood mark of 22,
it was 26.4 this morning.

FATE OF OLD FIREHOUSE NO. 8

UNCERTAIN: BADLY DAMAGED

To Repair Tornado-Struck Building
Would Cost as Much as New Structure.Old Firehouse No. 8, that has stood at the northeast corner of Hyde Park for the past 40 years,
suffered more from the tornado
than a first inspection indicated.
Fire Chief Alt said today. Careful examination showed the rear of the building is more than a foot
out of plumb, and all the walls are badly cracked.To remodel the old firehouse,
once used as a German meeting
hall, would cost as much as to rebuild the entire structure, and Fire Chief Alt will confer with Building Commissioner Christopher
before making any recommendations for repairs. It is possible that Hyde Park, which lost so many fine old trees in the storm, may gain a new firehouse.

DOG REFUGEE FOUND, OWNER'S ADDRESS LOST

Missing Persons Bureau Holding Airedale Blown From Home in Tornado.

An airedale dog, listed as found by the Missing Persons Bureau at Red Cross Tornado Relief Headquarters in the Lindell cutoff, is waiting to be claimed by its owner.

Wednesday afternoon a feminine voice appealed to a bureau attendant to "Please find my airedale. The last I saw of him he was sailing through the air during the tornado." Late yesterday the Franklin Music Co., 1719 Franklin avenue, told the Red Cross it was harboring an airedale that strayed in.

Meantime the name and address of the person reporting the lost dog had been misplaced. The license plate of the dog reads, "Jane Gibbons, 4003 Fairfax avenue," an address in the storm area, but the Missing Persons Bureau had no way of checking up on the lost and found dogs. It is waiting to hear again from the woman who telephoned Wednesday.

Although more than a week has passed since the tornado, the Missing Persons Bureau is still swamped with requests to find persons, most of them lost trace of after they moved to new homes out of the storm area. Since most of the movers told neighbors of their new addresses, very little trouble had been encountered. Cable requests for information on storm sufferers have come in from Havana, Cuba, and Europe.

Carpenter Ready for Work.

An aged Negro entered the employment department of the Urban League, 615 North Jefferson avenue, several days ago and surprised workers there by greeting them with: "It's an ill wind that doesn't blow good to somebody." He continued: "I lost everything I had in the tornado, except the clothes on my back. I didn't have much and couldn't lose much. It wasn't my house. A lot of colored men haven't been able to get work because they don't belong to the unions, but I guess we'll get work now, because there aren't enough white carpenters in the city to put back in a year what the wind tore down in five minutes. I haven't worked at my trade as a carpenter since I came from Alabama, but when they call for carpenters, send for me."

Comedian Gives Benefit.

Mike Lenehan, property man at the Orpheum, is spending his forenoon distributing clothing and food in the poorer districts struck by the tornado. The money for the articles is donated by persons appearing on the current bill at the Orpheum, Jean Adair, one of the headliners, bought more than $200 worth of clothing and bedding. Other contributors include Neville Finsen and Bobby Folsom, Bill Robinson, Wilfrid du Bois, and Billy Wells and the Four Fays.

Robinson, Negro comedian, last night gave a show at the Book-er Washington Theater for the tornado sufferers, and all the performers on the Orpheum bill appeared on the program.

Storm Destroys Old Spite Fence.

A 51-year-old "spite fence" between two three-story residences at 3708 and 3710 Cozans avenue was destroyed by the tornado. John Lorch and Fred Keller, who built the houses, were good friends and neighbors, according to the former's descendants, until they quarreled over a matter of $100 which Lorch had lent Keller. When Lorch built his house next to Keller's, Keller erected a high scaffold in an arwayway between the houses and nailed planking on the side of the scaffold facing Lorch's windows, thus cutting off his light.

Lorch and Keller died, but the scaffold stayed in place. Keller's descendants kept it in repair, and Lorch's descendants depended on the other side of the house for light. Passersby noticed a sign reading "Centennial Blind," on the scaffold, placed there by Keller when the blind was erected in 1876, the year of the Philadelphia Centennial.

The tornado wrecked the top floors of the two buildings, and also the "spite" structure between them. It probably will not be rebuilt, much to the loss of the sparrows which nested in the scaffold.

MILITARY PAGEANT PLANNED BY LEGION ON ARMISTICE DAY

All Members in St. Louis Expected to Take Part in Parade Nov. 11.

Plans for a big Armistice day parade the afternoon of Nov. 11, to include a pageant of the military history of the United States and demonstrations by uniformed civilian bodies, are being made by an American Legion committee headed by Col. James W. Byrnes as grand marshal.

Since the first anniversary of Armistice day in 1919, the annual observance of that day has not brought out a large body of service men. This year a full representation of all the Legion posts is planned, and the parade is to be augmented by other bodies.

Various societies will be asked to furnish marching groups, or floats, to show the military history of Revolutionary and later times, and to show the services rendered by different groups in the World War activities. Societies of various nationalities will be asked to take part in uniform or special costume as far as possible.

Organizations wishing to be represented in the parade may communicate with the grand marshal, Col. Byrnes, by calling GARfield 5527.

5 SAFES FORCED OPEN,
$673 TAKEN, IN NIGHT

Wellston Paint Co. Robbed of $308 in Second Burglary in Two Months.

In a series of safe robberies in the northwestern part of the city last night, five safes were opened and more than $678 was taken, it was reported to police.

At the Wellston Paint Co., 1484 Hodiamont avenue, $208.08 and several checks were taken after the combination had been knocked from the safe. This was the second robbery here within two months, $1000 having been taken on the first visit. The $1000 was not insured, but the loss last night was fully covered.

Two Piggy-Wiggy stores, one at 1044 Hodiamont avenue, the other at 813 Hamilton avenue, were entered and the safes forced open. From the store on Hodiamont $164 was taken. The safe at the other store yielded $187.

The safe of the Wilson Land and Lumber Co., Belt and Easton avenues, was opened, but it is believed the robbers obtained nothing of value.

The safe of the Free-Bright Laundry Co., at 3576 Easton avenue also was opened, but police were unable to learn what was taken.

WOMAN GETS 20 YEARS FOR KILLING HUSBAND

Mrs. Ruth Ball Found Guilty of Shooting Tulsa Druggist Over Divorce Suit.

By the Associated Press.
TULSA, Ok., Oct. 7.—The jury in the trial of Mrs. Ruth Ball, accused of having killed her husband, John W. Ball, Tulsa druggist, returned a verdict of manslaughter last night and fixed her penalty at 20 years in the State penitentiary.

Mrs. Ball, according to her account on the witness stand, shot Ball at his store immediately after learning, June 15, last, that he had filed divorce papers. She alleged he seized a heavy hammer and attempted to strike her when she told him she thought he was not entitled to a divorce. She closed her eyes, then, she testified, and shot. She also alleged Ball had beaten her and that he was unfaithful.

There were no witnesses and Mrs. Ball fled, but soon was arrested. Mrs. Ball is regarded a pretty blonde, the mother of a 2-year-old child. Her trial, which lasted 11 days, drew great crowds to the courtroom. Defense witnesses testified Ball mistreated his wife, and that he had had rather an extensive acquaintance with young women. A policeman said he had cautioned Ball not to make love to girls behind the prescription counter.

Gets 30 Years, Day After Crime.

By the Associated Press.
BRIDGETON, N. J., Oct. 7.—Less than 24 hours after he had committed the offense, Jordan Morrison, 21-year-old Negro, was on his way to the State prison today to serve 30 years at hard labor for attacking a 16-year-old girl. The girl had just taken lunch to her father, an employe at the city asphalt plant, yesterday, and was returned to her home when Morrison approached her at a lonely point. The Negro tore the girl's clothing and beat her. The girl identified Morrison at Police Headquarters and he later confessed. Today he was sentenced to prison.

YOUTH, 19, OCCUPIES CHAIR OF MAYOR

Harold O'Brien and Other De Molay Members Running City for the Day.

Harold O'Brien, a 19-year-old youth from Carondelet, is sitting in Mayor Miller's chair at City Hall today and many of his comrades in the Order of De Molay are filling the other major offices of the city just as they did last year on Sept. 17.

O'Brien, whose friends call him "Pat," was elected "Mayor" at a recent joint meeting of the nine De Molay chapters, at which the other municipal officers for the day were also named. The purpose of putting the young men in municipal offices is to acquaint them more fully with the operation of the city and inculcate more deeply in them the ideals of good citizenship.

The Order of De Molay was organized seven years ago in Kansas City for youths between the ages of 16 and 21. Today it has more than 200,000 members, of whom 3000 live in St. Louis. Frank S. Land of Kansas City, organizer of the order, is in St. Louis today to watch the work of his proteges in City Hall and will attend the organization meeting of the Spirit of St. Louis Chapter of De Molay Alumni at the Roosevelt Hotel tonight.

COAL STRIKE IN SOUTHWEST ENDS WITH OLD WAGE SCALE

Miners of Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas Sign Agreement With Owners.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 7.—An agreement ending the coal strike in Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas was signed by representatives of the United Mine Workers and the mine operators here last night. The miners will go back to work under virtually the same wage scale in effect before the suspension of work April 3, when the old contract expired.

The agreement was reached in the offices of W. L. A. Johnson, representing the Southwestern Interstate Coal Operators' Association. Johnson announced it was agreed that a committee of six, three representing the miners and three the operators, should be appointed to investigate working conditions and wage scales. In case of a disagreement a seventh man will be mutually agreed upon, and this committee was empowered to settle all disputes in the future.

He said that on account of the six months' strike virtually all operators in Arkansas and Oklahoma had withdrawn from the association, and he was unable to say if they would accept the agreement. The miners' representatives said that many operators in those states already had reached separate agreements with the miners on the basis of the 1924-1925 wage scale.

BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU ASSAILS 'FREE LOT' SCHEMES

Three Firms Said to Be Offering Undesirable Property for Nominal Sums.

Large industrial firms have received letters from the Better Business Bureau, condemning the "free lot" plan of selling real estate. There were nine "free lot" companies operating in St. Louis in October, 1925, when the bureau started a campaign against them; there are three such firms now.

According to the bureau, "free lot" companies are offering undesirable lots for nominal sums, the object being to switch the prospect to a high-priced lot later.

ILLNESS CAUSED POLICE CALL

Druggist Says He Asked Son's Removal to Hospital, Not Arrest.

Charles Remington, proprietor of a drug store at 4801 Olive street, today denied he had requested the arrest of his son, Shelton Remington, 25 years old, at the store Wednesday night. He said his son became ill from an overdose of a bromide, taken for the nerve, and that he merely asked police to remove him to City Hospital, where he is recovering.

Police reported arresting the son on the father's complaint that he was creating a disturbance in the store.

President Green Appeals to Convention to Make No Compromise With Communism.

SEEKS TO UNIONIZE ADDITIONAL CRAFTS

Federation to Continue Fight to Organize Labor in the Automobile Industry of Country.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 7.—Expulsion of foes within and a crusade to extend organized labor into new fields are the aims which have been undertaken by the American Federation of Labor in its annual convention here.

The first project was outlined at yesterday's session in an appeal by President William Green to "accept no dictation from Moscow; make no compromise with communism." It was reiterated in the unanimous vote of the delegates in favor of an amendment to the Federation constitution, described as a step to prevent the seating of undesirable delegates. The amendment provides that delegates must present credentials voted by the immediate organization with which they are affiliated.

Seeks to Unionize Auto Industry. Union labor's intention of organizing additional crafts and new territory cropped up in many resolutions and committee reports adopted yesterday.

The convention went on record as determined to continue its campaign to organize labor in the automobile industry of America. The action came on the report of the committee named a year ago for this work.

The support of the delegates was promised to the work of organizing the laundry workers of the United States and Canada; to adding workers in Porto Rico; to assist in a drive to enlarge the membership of the Hotel and Restaurant Union; to the mine mill and smelter workers of Northern Ontario, Canada, and to a special organization among textile workers in the South.

The resolution providing for aid in the latter campaign was offered by Thomas McMahon, representing the Textile Workers of America.

"We ask you to free the white slaves of the South," he pleaded. "There are more than 1,000,000 textile workers in the South, working 55 hours a week for low wages. That is why the South is not on the same buying basis as other communities."

Special Unions for Negroes. A movement to have all unions recognize and receive Negro workers failed and the Federation reaffirmed its policy of providing special organizations for Negro workers where unions draw a racial line.

A move toward ending a dispute between the International Association of Machinists and Amalgamated Association of Street and Electrical Railway Employees was taken by providing for the appointment of a committee to deal with the differences. The committee will be named by the presidents of the two bodies and will meet at Washington, D. C., in 1928.

Three resolutions accepted for introduction after the time limit by unanimous consent, were placed on top of 97 others which have been started on their way to the convention floor.

One would authorize the federation to use its good offices in seeing that a contract for education of a new British embassy building at Washington, D. C., is let to union labor.

Two others, one proposing "academic freedom" and another providing for federation aid in rehabilitating schools in the devastated areas of the Mississippi Valley, were introduced by Mrs. Florence Curtis Hanson of Chicago, secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Teachers.

MAN WHO LOST HIS HOME IN STORM REPORTED MISSING

Wife Asks Police to Search for Carl Fredericks Who Left for Work Monday.

Mrs. Carl Fredericks, of 1907 North Grand boulevard, reported to police yesterday her husband who left home Monday for work did not appear there and has not been heard from. He worried over destruction of their home by the tornado and asked her to find a new home before he left.

Friends of J. W. Williams, of Muskogee, Ok., who have not heard from him for several months fear he may have been injured in the storm and asked police to look for him.

Mrs. Victoria Doherty of 111 South Broadway found a note from her 14-year-old daughter, Ruth Huddleston, saying she was going to Shreveport, La. Mrs. Doherty turned the note over to police and asked them to find her daughter.

All Producing and Refining Equipment to Be Sent to Beaumont, Tex.—Move Laid to Mexico's Tax.

By the Associated Press. BEAUMONT, Tex., Oct. 7.—Withdrawal of all producing and refining equipment now standing and in storage at Tampico, Mex., has been ordered by the Standard Oil Co. of New York. It has been announced at the offices here of the Magnolia Petroleum Co., which is a Standard Oil subsidiary.

E. W. Gross, purchasing agent and official in charge of the undertaking, announced that equipment to be removed is the property of the New England Fuel Co. and the Continental Mexican Petroleum Co., both Standard Oil subsidiaries. Both companies had practically suspended operation for some months.

The move was credited to the burden placed on petroleum by the Southern republic's export tax, which, when added to transportation costs, makes it difficult to deal profitably with the Tampico product. The present revolution had nothing to do with the order, it was said.

All equipment will be brought to Beaumont to be reconditioned. Its value is reported to be in excess of $250,000. This, however, is no indication of the total value of Mexican holdings, as much material already has been withdrawn and huge sums remain invested in oil lands.

An office force will be left at Tampico to handle matters relating to these holdings and other business that may arise with Mexican land laws, it was added.

DE FOREST WINS SUIT OVER RADIO PATENTS

Half a Billion Dollars Involved in Litigation on Two Inventions.

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—Dr. Lee de Forest, in the opinion of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, was the original inventor of the oscillating audio and the radio feed back circuit, vital elements in broadcasting.

Approximately half a billion dollars in royalties and other claims are involved in the inventions. By the decision upholding Dr. de Forest's contentions, three other claimants were overruled. Each at one time or another had been declared the original inventor by various courts. De Forest's claims, however, have been upheld in lower tribunals four times, more than any of the others. It is expected the case will be appealed to the Supreme Court.

Others Claim Inventions. The other claimants are the Government, which maintains that Alexander Meissner, a German inventor, discovered the feed back circuit, which is used on many radio receiving sets to obtain added power, and the audio, one of the principles by which broadcasting was made possible; the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., which declares that Maj. Edwin H. Armstrong, a Columbia University graduate, was the inventor, and the General Electric Co., which insists the discoveries were made by Irving Langmuir.

In its opinion handed down yesterday, the Circuit Court of Appeals called attention to references of counsel in a suit between De Forest and the Radio Corporation of America, that should the Court decide in De Forest's favor, the Westinghouse company and the General Electric Co. would be permitted to use the invention without payment of royalties, holding as they do, licenses from the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. to whom De Forest gave a license years ago.

Had the decision been in favor of any of the other three parties the victor would have had royalty claims against De Forest and the others.

Litigation Has Run for Years. The opinion said that evidence disclosed that De Forest came upon the possibilities of the use of the audio in radio Aug. 6, 1912, an earlier date than was claimed by the others, the nearest of whom was Maj. Armstrong.

"Whether De Forest advanced toward the invention intelligently or stumbled upon it," said the opinion, which was written by Judge Woolley and concurred in by Judges Buffington and Davis, "is a matter of no concern, for it was an invention none the less."

Litigation over the inventions has continued for several years at an expense running into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

FUR SEALS NUMBER 808,870

Census in August Shows Increase of 47,000 in Year.
By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Fur fields under Uncle Sam's custody on the Alaskan islands where seals breed, the Department of Commerce announces, had a total of seal population on Aug. 10, 1927, at 808,870. The census last year on the same date showed 761,231 seals, so that the increase in the herd for a year was about 6 per cent.

Many years ago the Pacific seal was almost extinct when the United States, Great Britain, Japan and Russia agreed to joint action to stop the killing of the animals at sea. Since that time their numbers, however, have been steadily increasing.

FOOD RELIEF CARRIES ON, PEAK IS PASSED

Moolah Temple Kitchen, With Volunteer Crews, Fed Between 7500 and 40,000.

Activity in the basement of Moolah Temple food supply base of the Red-Cross tornado relief is slowing down with the passing of the emergency, but trucks and trundles up to the door all day,
leaving with baskets and rations
for refugees at centers of temporary shelter such as Poro College,
and for workers in the storm area.

At the peak of the emergency
phase last Saturday and Sunday,
the central depot was sending out
emergency rations for from 7,500
to 10,000 storm sufferers, but this form of distribution is being succeeded by requisitions for food on the corner grocer or baskets of supplies affording a balanced diet.

Instead of five moving canteens,
only one now traverses the tornado area with cans of soup, coffee and sandwiches. Most of the food now goes in bulk to relief centers, the American Legion station at Vandewater and Evans avenues, the St.
Louis University gymnasium and other temporary accommodations.

Directors of this relief work have been too busy to account for the food distributed, but Horace Swope, chairman of the food committee, estimates that 50,000 cups of coffee had been brewed by the volunteer cooks up to Wednesday
night.

Charles P. Capen, commissary, has been placing big orders, some days for as much as 6,000 pounds of ham, 300 gallons of milk and hundreds of loaves of bread. Much of this now goes into the baskets
for the central depot represents donations of wholesalers, bakers and merchants. All sorts of supplies poured in after the tornado. Housewives offered cakes and pies. Bakers offered their surplus. Dairies gave gallons of milk.

Elmer Lilley, a farmer, of Cas-eyville, Ill., drove up Wednesday with a truckload of produce from farmers around Caseyville. There was a list of 14 contributors and how much each had given. Adolph Jacquet, for instance, had donated a bushel of potatoes and a bushel of cabbage. Stephen Davison had given 10 dozen ears of corn. E.
Weissert had given a "lot of tomatoes," and Frank Schranz a "lot of potatoes."

Only the staples were suitable for tornado relief purposes, but the surplus was distributed among hospitals and charitable institutions,
some of which housed storm sufferers.

The nucleus of the volunteer food department was the fifteen service organized in the war. Many of the women serving with blue aprons in the basement of Moolah Temple handed out refreshments and doughnuts and coffee to soldiers as they came through St.
Louis in troop trains bound for Eastern ports. Capen himself was commissary in charge of the Red Cross relief stations in the railroad yards of St. Louis for a year and a half during the war.

TICKET SCALPER FACES YEAR
IN PRISON FOR GOUGING

Broker, Who Admitted $37,000
Tax Fraud, Arrested for Profiteering on World Series.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Ticket
gouging for the world series by Broadway scalpers will result in the imposition of at least one prison sentence, United States Attorney Tuttle announced yesterday. One of two ticket sellers said to have been caught by federal agents who he taken into Federal Court today, Tuttle said, and his suspended charges of income tax frauds will be changed to a prison term.

One broker, Jack Levy, with 23
other ticket scalpers, pleaded guilty
July 29, of having defrauded the Government out of a sum estimated at $37,000 in revenue taxes. He and the others were given suspended sentences on the recommendation of Tuttle after they had signed a stipulation agreeing not to charge more than the old 50 cents' premium for tickets.

Both Levy and George Solitaire,
according to federal agents, sold single tickets for the games at the Stadium at an excess of 200 per cent and more of the box office
price. The maximum penalty which may be imposed for this violation is $100 fine for each ticket sold.

STOCK PROMOTER SOUGHT AS FUGITIVE ARRESTED IN OFFICE

C. O. Westfall, 47, Sentenced to 2
Years in Prison, Held at Philadelphia.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—Said
to be wanted by police in a number of cities as well as by the Federal authorities at Port Leavenworth penitentiary, Christian O.
Westfall, 47 years old, a stock promoter, was arrested by a United States Marshal at his office today charged with being a fugitive from justice.

At a hearing before a United States Commissioner, he was held pending transfer to Leavenworth prison to which he is said to have been sentenced to two years after his conviction for embezzling $16, 000 from a bank in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Westfall is alleged to have become a fugitive when the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati refused his appeal for a new trial he failed to surrender to serve his sentence.

By the Associated Press.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, sensational pitching by Herb Pennock, game without a defeat, and a home men on bases, the New York Yankees the Pittsburgh Pirates by winning the crowd of more than 60,000.

Pennock permitted the visitors to strike only three hits, two bunched in the eighth for the only National League run. The lone counter sacrifice from a single by Traynor and a double by Barnhart.

The other hit was a single by Lloyd Waner in the ninth.

Only 21 Pirates faced Pennock during the first seven innings, none reaching first base.

Ruth broke into the home run column for the current world series when he drove the ball into the bleachers, with two on bases in the eighth, an inning in which the Yankees scored six of their runs. The home run came from the delivery of Mike Cvengros, who relieved Lee Meadows just in time to pitch to Ruth. The southpaw, however, came back to strike out the next two batters.

The game:

FIRST INNING.
PIRATES—Koenig threw out L. Waner. Rhyme flied to Meusel. P. Waner also flied to Meusel. NO RUNS. NO HITS. NO ERRORS.

YANKEES—Combs singled to center. Koenig scratched a single over Meadows' head. Combs stopping at second. Ruth popped to Wright. Combs and Koenig scored on Gehrig's triple to left, but Gehrig was out at the plate trying to stretch his hit. Barnhart to L. Waner to Wright to Gehrig. Meusel struck out. TWO RUNS. THREE HITS. NO ERRORS.

SECOND INNING.
PIRATES—Wright flied to Combs. Lazzeri threw out Traynor. Barnhart went out the same way. NO RUNS. NO HITS. NO ERRORS.

YANKEES—Lazzeri was called out on strikes. Dugan grounded to Wright. Traynor threw out Grabowski. NO RUNS. NO HITS. NO ERRORS.

THIRD INNING.
PIRATES—Harris flied to Combs. Gehrig was called out on strikes. Lazzeri threw out Meadows. NO RUNS. NO HITS. NO ERRORS.

YANKEES—Rhyme threw out Pennock. Combs flied to L. Waner. Wright ran back into center field for Koenig's fly. NO RUNS. NO HITS. NO ERRORS.

FOURTH INNING.
PIRATES—Lazzeri threw out L. Waner. Rhyme popped to Koenig. P. Waner lined to Dugan. NO RUNS. NO HITS. NO ERRORS.

YANKEES—Ruth struck out. Gehrig walked. On the hit and run, Meusel hit a grounder to Traynor, who threw the ball into the grandstand. Under the ground rules Gehrig stopped at third and Meusel at second. Lazzeri struck out. Traynor threw out Dugan. NO RUNS. NO HITS. ONE ERROR.

FIFTH INNING.
PIRATES—Wright popped to Grabowski in front of the plate. Traynor fouled to Grabowski. Combs made a fine running catch of Barnhart's long fly. NO RUNS. NO HITS. NO ERRORS.

YANKEES—Grabowski popped to Wright. Pennock was called out on strikes. Combs bunted and was tossed out by Meadows. NO RUNS. NO HITS. NO ERRORS.

SIXTH INNING.
PIRATES—Pennock tossed out Harris. Gehrig flied to Root. Meadows hit a short fly to Combs. NO RUNS. NO HITS. NO ERRORS.

YANKEES—Rhyme threw out Koenig. Ruth grounded to Rhyme. Gehrig doubled to right. Meusel

THREE VETERANS IN BACKFIELD TO BE ON SIDELINES

The third strike was to his liking and he hoisted a home run into the right field seats, the first four-bagger of the series.

Ruth scored behind Combs and Koenig and the Yankees were eight runs to the good, and with Pennock's efforts for a no-hit game now the only interesting feature, the fans were glad to see Gehrig and Meusel strike out to end the frame.

Every play was a thriller now. Wright led off in the eighth and the stands were hushed as Pennock pitched a third ball. However, he grooved the next one and Wright grounded to deep short. Koenig's arm was good enough, however, and he whipped out the runner.

Then the first hit. Pie Traynor ruined the chances of a no-hit game. The Pirate third-sacker pushed a grounder between Dugan and Koenig and neither had a chance to reach it.

New York experts familiar with the Yankees and Pennock were right. They had predicted that the run-inning that Pennock would not pitch such a bright ball. He relaxed further after the hit by Traynor and Barnhart doubled to right center, scoring Traynor.

Two brilliant plays followed to prevent further scoring. Dugan ran in front of Koenig for a good stop of Harris' grounder and threw him out, holding Barnhart on second. Spencer then well behind second for a brilliant stop and his underhand throw to Gehrig beat Spencer by a fraction of a step.

The rest of the game was merely a matter of routine. Lazzari grounded to Rhyme to start the Yankee eighth and after Dugan had singled to center, Rhyme threw out Bengough and Traynor made a glove-hand pickup of Pennock's grounder and tossed him out.

The fans were streaming toward the exits as the Pirates went to bat for their final inning. Hein Groh, the half-pint veteran with the quaint bottle bat, batted for Cleveland and popped to Pennock. Lloyd Waner then dropped a single just inside the left field line but Rhyme fielded to Combs, and Paul Waner popped to Lazzari and the Yankees were within one victory and the winners' end of the world series swag.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 7.—Battling for supremacy in the Missouri Valley Conference's 1927 title race, the two teams whose rivalry has extended through two conferences and the traditions of their respective institutions, rivals for more than a score of years, the University of Missouri and Nebraska met in Memorial Stadium here tomorrow afternoon in the only championship game on the conference schedule this week.

While the Tigers and the Cornhuskers are fighting it out for the leadership, other schools are enjoying open dates or meeting non-conference opponents. The Kansas Aggies will rest, and Oklahoma will spend an easy afternoon with the freshmen, while Kansas and the Oklahoma Aggies rest in the Western Conference competition with Wisconsin and Minnesota, respectively. Drake goes east to meet the Navy. Ames is out to Simpson.

Tigers Badly Crippled

It will be a much battered and badly crippled Tiger eleven which meets the Huskers. The veteran Glenn Smith is to be missing from the line, while from the backfield last year Captain Flannick and Tuttle have passed from the picture because of injury. There is an outside possibility that one or two of these men may get into the game at a crucial moment, but Coach Henry feels certain that none is in condition to stand the gauntlet of a Nebraska game for more than a few downs.

The signal drill yesterday tapered off the week's program of heavy scrimmage, from which the suffering veterans were left out, but in which the reserves had ample opportunity to present their claims for starting positions.

These claims had apparently simmered down to a definite starting lineup—barring of course the possibility that one of the veterans might yet arise from his seat on hospital road and demand a starter's position. Bob Mehrie, whose sophomore rise to a place on the starting variety last week caused more than a ripple in Missouri gridiron affairs, was slated for further elevation this week—the quarterback's job, and the veteran Diamond is also remaining in the lineup.

Byars to Do Punting

The other two backfield positions now seem most likely to fall to the lot of Swofford, a sophomore, and Byars, a junior. Swofford's passing and Byars' punting, along with the general defensive ability of both, has apparently brought them to the top.

Weight figures and the absence of the two universities reveal a striking similarity of general team averages, only a fraction more than one pound separating the Tigers and the Huskers, though absence of Tuttle and Flannick from the Missouri backfield leaves the Bengals badly outweighed in that department. Nebraska's backfield averages 179 pounds, and Missouri only 165. In the line, however, the advantage is with the Tigers, 195 to 190.

PURDUE HAS ONLY ONE CHANCE IN 26 OF BEATING HARVARD

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 7.—Purdue has one chance in 26 of beating Harvard tomorrow, football record books have calculated.

Since 1882, when football games were first decided on a basis of points, only one team from outside Harvard's usual playing area has been successful in upsetting the crimson gridiron machine on home territory.

That was in 1921 when Centre College won 6 to 0. But in 25 other games starting with Michigan in 1893, Harvard has had the best of things.

The usual area from which Harvard's opponents have come is bounded on the north by Hanover, N. H., on the south by Philadelphia, on the southwest by Carlisle, Pa., and on the northwest by Ithaca, N. Y.

Golden Tinted, at Churchill Pays $86 for $2; Voshell Scores at Hawthorne.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Kentucky II, odds-on favorite at 9 to 10, carried the silks of A. C. Schwartz to victory over a smart field in the October Handicap at the Jamaica race track yesterday, winning by two lengths from Cherry Pie. Light Carbine came in to show. The race was worth $370.

The victor covered the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:45.

Golden Tinted, an outsider, took the fourth race at Hawthorne, a $100 claiming event for 2-year-olds, by a long shot, which rewarded backers with $54 for a $2 ticket. Estin took the place, while Gotham was next. The time for the six furlongs was 1:16 2-5.

Hughes Boxes Wally.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 7.—Tommy Hughes, hard hitting Cleveland flyweight, will battle Wally Wally of Singapore, in the semi-final match of the California Boxing Commission's flyweight elimination tournament tonight with the winners of teams programmed to fight it out with another Cleveland entrant, Johnny McCoy, Oct. 21.

SPORTS SALAD

The Shoestring Catch, HE shoestring catch is sure a wow—

Much harder than a high one; And I will tell you here and now, I'd rather tie than try one.

The ball is caught above the shoe, As on the run you take it; But oh, the difference to you, If you should fail to make it!

The rooters, when you boot the ball, With flowers never say it; And so it's better after all, For you to safely play it.

Perhaps you'll get away with it And feel just like a hero; But when the ball eludes your mitt, You feel more like a zero.

It's just a fifty-fifty match, Most any way you take it. They'll jeer you if you miff the catch And cheer you if you make it.

Too True.

If the initial game is any indication, it looks as though "Oil" Smith had better start riding herd on his own goat.

The Lower the Higher.

Tex Rickard let his $40 patrons in on the ground floor which gave said patron a pain in the neck but not one of those kind of pains that the man behind him could see through.

"Longhorns and Frogs Play Scoreless Tie."

Football as she is played in Texas.

The Buck Came Back.

The man who sent John D. Rockefeller a dollar bill to bet on Dempsey evidently didn't know that John had a weakness for a 10-cent limit.

Speaking of dollar bills one was picked up on a farm in Illinois, 25 miles out of St. Louis, with other papers showing that it had been blown there by the tornado. That's one way to blow in a dollar.

Bobby Jones says topping may be cured by a back-swing. Ha' you any cure for missing the ball altogether, Rabble?

"Radio Used to Avoid Fights."

That's right. Why pay 40 bucks when you can get it by radio for nothing?

"Sawdust Now Used in Various Industries."

It's a wise guy that knows his breakfast food.

See where Indiana has a candidate for President. However, what we need is a man who would have a reasonable chance of staying out of jail for four years.

MINNESOTA FARMERS REJOICE OVER VICTORY SCORED BY PIPGRAS

By the Associated Press.

SLAYTON, Minn., Oct. 7.—George Pipgras' home-town folks were mighty proud today, for the farmer boy of 1920 had achieved an ambition all pitchers cherish—victory in a world's series game.

Over the countryside and in the towns of this section, most everybody knocked off work yesterday to gather in groups around radio sets to hear how "Dip" was going.

Ever since the Boston Red Sox elevated him to the majors in 1922 his progress has been watched—his subsequent experience with the Yankees, into the Southern Association, then to St. Paul in the American Association, and again back to New York.

In the groups that know him best, close friends of the Pipgras family living near here, there was the utmost confidence from the outset of the game that George would come through.

WRESTLERS AND BOXERS IN BENEFIT PROGRAM

An athletic program, including boxing and wrestling and featured by an exhibition between Johnny "Pee Wee" Kaiser and an opponent as yet not selected, will be held Monday night at the Westlawn Theater. The proceeds will be donated to the Tornado Relief Fund.

Last Night's Fights

NEW YORK.—Phil McGraw, won on a foul from Sid Terris, New York (2). Bobby Briggs, New York, defeated Jimmy Britt, California (10). Jack Duffy, Toledo, defeated Frankie Fink, Texas (10). Roberto Roberti, Italy, and Jack Townsend, New York, draw (6).

CHICAGO. — Sammy Baker, New York, won from Billy Agger, Phoenix (10). Roelauz Saguero, Cuba, scored technical knockout over Art Weigand, who did some kicking during the 1925 season, is again gaining attention. Whittier and Aze are also being closely watched by the Bear coaches.

One of the reserve ends to whom Higgins has been devoting much attention will not be available for the remainder of the season, Robert

No Injuries Hamper Billikens On Eve of Third Game of Year

Wisdom of Picking Comparatively Weak Opponents for "Warm-Up" Games Is Apparent—Meet Missouri Teachers at Sportsman's Park Tomorrow.

By Dent McSkimming.

The wisdom of Coach Bob Mathews' insistence upon a well regulated schedule which opens the season with comparatively "soft" opposition and winds up against the big fellows is beginning to be evident. Tomorrow afternoon the St. Louis University team will play its third game of the season and there is not a single man in the squad who is not fit for duty. Ed Davidson, the regular center, has a pulled muscle in his leg but he can play if necessary.

Only a few years ago, just before the advent of Mathews, the Billikens annually tackled some tough foes, notably Notre Dame and Army, in the first or second game of the season and then limped through the remainder of the schedule on sprained ankles, sprained shoulders, twisted knees, broken fingers and badly damaged morale.

Players Fit, Morale Better.

Not only are all players in fit physical condition for tomorrow's game with the Springfield State Teachers' College of Springfield, Mo., but the members of the team are permitting themselves to believe that they are becoming a good football eleven. Two victories in the first two games of the schedule have had a beneficial influence in building up this spirit of confidence.

Mathews' interchangeable set of backfield men, Jordan, Parilla, Flynn and Lintzheim, went through a very snappy drill at the Grand and Laclede "proving grounds" yesterday afternoon. It's an unorthodox combination in several respects. There is no fixed division of duties, for either one of the four is trained to play the fullback, halfback or quarterback position. The duties are very similar and there is very little difference in the physical proportions of the four. Lintzheim seems better qualified for the line smashing because he has a more rugged frame but the ball is handed first to one and then to the other, so that neither will get too much of the burden. Flynn and Parilla and Jordan are the signal callers.

Play at Sportsman's Park.

A sort of "spot motion picture" dummy scrimmage was engaged in yesterday to polish off a cross-back play, which ought to prove very deceptive when working smoothly. Mathews kept the squad busy until darkness forced a halt. It was not a full scrimmage because the players were not asked to smash away with all their energy. They went through the play, blocking, body checking, interfering and rushing, without the danger of doing bodily injury.

The purpose of this style of scrimmage was to make the mechanics of the play easily apparent to each of the players and to enable the coach to better instruct each individual in the technique of his job.

Tomorrow's game will be played at Sportsman's Park, Grand boulevard and Dodder street, and will start at 2:15 o'clock.

BEAR REGULARS TO OPPOSE ROLLA TEAM TOMORROW

Shimmers to Play Tackle Position—Miners to Bring Veteran Team.

The Washington University football team will try for its third consecutive victory of the season at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon on Francis Field when the Bears meet the Missouri School of Mines eleven. Washington has defeated Lombard College and Oklahoma A. & M. College by 6-0 scores. Rolla won a victory over Shurtleff College 7-0.

Coach Bob Higgins sent the Bear squad through an intensive drill yesterday, emphasizing "dummy" scrimmage the line-up which he will use tomorrow. With the exception of Shimmers, who will replace Constock at tackle, the Bears will present the same eleven starters as opened against Lombard and the Aggies.

Rolla Has Veteran Team.

A veteran team will represent Rolla with Monte Ledford, captain, doing the punting. Ledford, an agile runner who caused considerable consternation among the Bear ends last year, is a consistent 50-yard kicker. Hartnett, who has been doing the bulk of the Washington work, still drags an injured leg around the practice field and is not expected to be in the best condition.

Other backfield men who are expected to star for the visitors are Mike Hassler, halfback, who played brilliant football with the Washington U. freshmen last fall, and Lemond, veteran fullback. Lemond is an accurate passer. Washington has used the pass sparingly in its games to date.

Good Drop Kickers Found.

Higgins has explained the Bears' use of straight plays as due to the short training season. Higgins declares he may try out some of his surprise plays and pass maneuvers. The search for an accurate drop-kicker has found several promising candidates. Higgins reports, Jacoby, who did some kicking during the 1925 season, is again gaining attention. Whittier and Aze are also being closely watched by the Bear coaches.

One of the reserve ends to whom Higgins has been devoting much attention will not be available for the remainder of the season, Robert

MUDDY FIELDS IN PROSPECT FOR BIG TEN GAMES

May Reduce Effectiveness of Running Attack and Bring Out More Passing—Illinois Stars Quarantined.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—Football coaches of the Big Ten are looking for the fellow who said "It ain't gonna rain no more."

A week of practice on muddy fields where ambitious gridirers slipped, slithered and slid through workouts, and from which school heroes emerged with feet of clay, ended with players and coaches alike trying to find the dark clouds' silver lining.

Coach Bert Ingwersen at Iowa City was the only coach in the conference who saw any advantage in the rain. Ingwersen believes the soft field will stop the running attack of the Ohio Staters, but will not do much harm to his own organization's passing efforts.

On to Harvard.

Purdue's eleven, minus the services of their ground gaining captain, "Cotton" Wilcox, injured in last week's game, were en route to Massachusetts for the Bollermakers' game with Harvard, which marks the first Eastern invasion of the Lafayette School. Wilcox was removed from the hospital and placed on the special train which carried players and rooters, and will watch the game from the sidelines.

In addition to the woes handed him by the weather, Coach Bob Zuppke has an Illinois team of many new faces. A case of scarlet fever in the Sigma Pi Fraternity house quarantined Humbert, star fullback; Richmond, guard; Mariner, the veteran tackle, and Shultz, a last year's center. The quartet will be out of the game probably for 10 days. Second and third string men will replace them in the game with Butler tomorrow.

Coach Stagg's Chicagoans, smarting under the aerial attack of the University of Oklahoma which beat them yesterday, were concentrating on a forward passing defense and offense, as also were Coach Spears' Minnesota Gophers and Michigan's Gridirers.

Ohio's squad planned a workout late today in Iowa City, in preparation for the fray with the University of Iowa tomorrow.

Northwestern's Steam Rollers were awaiting their game with the University of Utah team. The Utah eleven was to practice today on the Northwestern gridiron, which was soaked by last night's rain. Coach Hamilton said that Holmer would start at right half for the Purple, displacing Calderwood.

Indiana Picked Over Chicago.

Coach Pat Page's Indiana eleven was at Chicago, awaiting the whistle for Saturday's play with the Maroons. The Hoosiers are generally conceded the better opportunity of ending up on the long side of the scorer's column.

At Ann Arbor, most eyes were on Miller, a quarterback, recently returned to the squad, and who has been given some concentrated practice in kicking.

Wisconsin's football players, coaches, a cross-country team, and some fans left last night for Lawrence, Kan., where the Badgers have both football and track competition tomorrow. Madison hopes to secure a setback of a setback when Paul Schutte, a veteran guard and a tower of strength in the forward wall, was declared ineligible because of scholastic difficulties.

Rockne Favors Tigers.

The Nebraska-Missouri tangle at Columbia will go a long way toward settling the championship in the Missouri Valley Conference. Nebraska had high hopes of securing another one of its really great teams. Last Saturday, however, its showing against Iowa State was rather disappointing, whereas Missouri showed fine strength against the Kansas Aggies. I am inclined to favor Coach Henry's boys, who seem to be headed for another championship. It is too bad that a game of this importance had to be played before either coach had a real chance to complete preparations.

The game which will attract the most attention will be Purdue's invasion of Harvard. If Wilcox is able to play, I look for Jimmy Phelan's boys to do the unexpected, and win this interesting match. Harvard and his assistants at Harvard are bringing their team along slowly and are doing a lot of experimenting with the lateral pass. Phelan at Purdue is bringing his team along rapidly and is doing no experimenting.

It will be a case of old master vs. the pupil when Indiana plays Chicago at Stagg Field, Indiana hasn't had a great deal in the way of football since Jumbo Steinhilber's Day but this year Pat Page has a team which will make it mighty interesting for anyone. Chicago's defeat by Oklahoma does not mean that Chicago is weak and it may do the Stagmen a lot of good. It looks like an "even up" contest—one that ought to be a dandy. I am slightly inclined to favor Indiana at this time.

Ohio Goes to Iowa.

Ohio State meets Iowa at Iowa City in the other big game in the Big Ten. Bert Ingwersen has a fine line but seems to be shy of backfield material. Ohio State has one of the best backfield combinations in the country and they should prove too much for Iowa. This boy Eby stands a good chance of being one of the season's flashes, with the other three Ohio backs not far behind.

Minnesota should not have any trouble with Oklahoma. Agricultural and Mechanical nor will Illinois encounter much opposition from Butler. Wisconsin ought to beat Kansas though Kansas will be better than they were last year.

Utah May Surprise.

The average observer may not feel that Northwestern will encounter much opposition from Utah but I predict that Utah will give Northwestern a stiff game. Utah has a big, husky team, ably coached by Ike Armstrong, and their work will surprise those who are not familiar with their past performances. Northwestern will prepare Northwesters' team for a football worthy of anybody's afternoon. In fact, don't be surprised if Utah even throws a scare into the Purple camp. If they should do this, it will do no harm as football teams develop under pressure—against resistance that is stubborn, and in no other way. The game at Ann Arbor, most eyes were on Miller, a quarterback, recently returned to the squad, and who has been given some concentrated practice in kicking.

Rockne Favors Missouri Over Nebraska in Game At Columbia Tomorrow

Notre Dame Coach Declares That Coach Henry's Team Appears Headed for a Valley Championship—More Time Needed to Prepare for Game.

By Knute Rockne, (Coach Notre Dame University.)

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 7.—All the teams in the Middle West received their baptism of fire last Saturday. Tomorrow the games for the most part will be of most importance. Quite a few of the contests will be stubbornly and evenly contested.

The game which will attract the most attention will be Purdue's invasion of Harvard. If Wilcox is able to play, I look for Jimmy Phelan's boys to do the unexpected, and win this interesting match. Harvard and his assistants at Harvard are bringing their team along slowly and are doing a lot of experimenting with the lateral pass. Phelan at Purdue is bringing his team along rapidly and is doing no experimenting.

It will be a case of old master vs. the pupil when Indiana plays Chicago at Stagg Field, Indiana hasn't had a great deal in the way of football since Jumbo Steinhilber's Day but this year Pat Page has a team which will make it mighty interesting for anyone. Chicago's defeat by Oklahoma does not mean that Chicago is weak and it may do the Stagmen a lot of good. It looks like an "even up" contest—one that ought to be a dandy. I am slightly inclined to favor Indiana at this time.

Ohio Goes to Iowa.

Ohio State meets Iowa at Iowa City in the other big game in the Big Ten. Bert Ingwersen has a fine line but seems to be shy of backfield material. Ohio State has one of the best backfield combinations in the country and they should prove too much for Iowa. This boy Eby stands a good chance of being one of the season's flashes, with the other three Ohio backs not far behind.

Minnesota should not have any trouble with Oklahoma. Agricultural and Mechanical nor will Illinois encounter much opposition from Butler. Wisconsin ought to beat Kansas though Kansas will be better than they were last year.

Utah May Surprise.

The average observer may not feel that Northwestern will encounter much opposition from Utah but I predict that Utah will give Northwestern a stiff game. Utah has a big, husky team, ably coached by Ike Armstrong, and their work will surprise those who are not familiar with their past performances. Northwestern will prepare Northwesters' team for a football worthy of anybody's afternoon. In fact, don't be surprised if Utah even throws a scare into the Purple camp. If they should do this, it will do no harm as football teams develop under pressure—against resistance that is stubborn, and in no other way. The game at Ann Arbor, most eyes were on Miller, a quarterback, recently returned to the squad, and who has been given some concentrated practice in kicking.

TOLEDO PLAYERS GET $1000 EACH AS TITLEHOLDERS

By the Associated Press.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 7.—Thousand dollar checks and junior world series championship pennants rewarded the Toledo Mud Hens today for the victory over Buffalo in five out of six games. Emilio Palmero, the Mud Hens' Cuban southpaw, shut out Buffalo in the final game yesterday, 4 to 0, and drove in one of the runs himself.

With their own series happily concluded, President Dick Meade of the Toledo club and various members of his players decided today to look over the big world series in New York tomorrow. The losing clubs' share was a little over $18,000 or about $750 apiece, the second highest purse ever received in the history of the annual conflicts between the American Association and International League for the class AA title.

A Toledo victory was overshadowed in the last game when Palmero pulled himself out of a tight spot in the fourth inning, and Bill Marriott, Toledo third baseman, drove in two more markers in the sixth. The 4000 spectators swarmed on the field to cheer their first set of baseball champions when Freddy Maguire, a future Chicago Cub, took Pond's grounder and stepped on second for the closing out. On four week days, the Toledo club drew nearly $40,000, while Saturday and Sunday games at Buffalo drew $26,000.

Today many schools are represented by champions but tomorrow evening many of these will be known as just a football team. (Copyright, 1927.)

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, at present United States Senator from New York and formerly Health Commissioner for the City of New York, is a national authority on public health and the record he achieved in New York at the head of the Health Department has never been equalled. It is natural that his opinion should have decisive weight.

Dr. Copeland says: "Mineral waters of the right sort are preferable to many of the cathartic compounds on the market. Their power to overcome the immediate effects of constipation is unquestioned. In their effects upon the bowel and its lining membranes, I am confident they are far less irritating. Indeed, many mineral waters possess qualities which make them soothing and healing to the tissues. Sugar coated pills are pleasant to take—that is the reason they are coated with sugar. But the fact that they are so attractive may add to their danger. They are no less habit-forming and drastic simply because they appeal to the taste. On the other hand, mineral waters contain elements which are found in the blood. Most of these substances are there in higher percentage than in the blood. For that reason they are unattractive to the blood-stream and therefore pass through the system, doing nothing else but to flush and cleanse the intestinal tract."

PLUTO WATER
America's Physic

When Nature Won't, PLUTO Will

Pluto Water, with its mineral content, has been the dependable agent of the American people over the years in successfully battling constipation, the source of so many bodily ills. It flushes the bowels and washes away impurities, gently, naturally and thoroughly. It neither gripes nor is habit-forming. Acts in 30 minutes to 2 hours.

"Big Six" to Draw Up Football Schedule for 1928, Report From Kansas City Says.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Oct. 7.—The Kansas City Star says today that the six schools which recently withdrew from the Missouri Valley Conference will be represented at a meeting at the Kansas City Athletic Club here next Sunday morning.

The withdrawing schools are Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Kansas State Agricultural College and Iowa State.

The Star says the meeting is primarily to arrange the 1928 football schedule of the new conference, which has not yet been named, but which the article refers to as the "Big Six" conference.

Withdrawal of the schools does not become effective until the end of the present academic year.

Smith, who can play right wing, center or on the defense, is expected to add considerable strength to the Maroon lineup.

McTigue Opposes Loughran in Title Contest Tonight

Lighthweight Honors Will Be at Stake in 15-Round Battle.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The first heavyweight title, that much abused, kicked around, poor old 175-pound tibia, is going to be dusted off this evening when Mike McTigue will "defend" the title against Tommy Loughran, the most persistent champion chaser that ever pulled a glove. McTigue is an 8 to 5 favorite.

The pair meet in Madison Square Garden tonight and no matter what the rest of the world may think about the result, the next consideration is going to put a high silk hat on the winner and "Consider thyself kingpin pumpkins of the whole world of 175 pounders."

The light heavy weight title is a nice old title at that. Some great men have held it. Bob Fitzsimmons, for instance, was the first man of ring importance to own the title. Jack Root was the first man to hold it.

It was an honor induced by Lew Houman for Jack Root. At various times Jack O'Brien, Battling Levinsky, Gene Tunney, Georges Carpentier, Battling Siki, Mike McTigue, Paul, Derlenbach, Jack Delaney and—well, we find old Mike back on the job of claiming the title and willing to "defend" it against any man in the world.

The bout is a fifteen-round affair and there will be little excuse for the man who doesn't win. It isn't likely that it will be that close that the boys will go home crying about it.

YOUTH SERIOUSLY SHOT, SAYS NEGRO IN STREET FIRED AT HIM

William Jacks, 17, Is Removed to City Hospital for Operation.

Told that a man who had been shot was at St. Louis Baptist Hospital, Police Lieutenant Tabb of Dayton Street Station last night
found a youth who said he is William Jacks, 17 years old, of 1426
Hill terrace, suffering from bullet wounds in the left arm and left breast. The youth was taken to City Hospital for an operation, after it had been determined his condition was serious.

Jacks said he had been standing at Webster and Cass avenues when a Negro stopped and asked what he was doing there. He told the Negro it was none of his business and the Negro shot him, he said.
Police canvassed the neighborhood,
but were unable to find anyone who had heard a shot fired.

It was recalled by policemen that Jacks was one of several youths who had a fight with Negroes recently, after their machines had collided. During the fight two of the youths were slightly cut. The Negroes figuring in the collision are being sought so they may be questioned.

RULING GIVEN ON CLAIMS OF WORKMEN HURT IN TORNADO

Compensation Act Protects Them
Only if They Were Sent Out Into Storm, Phillips Says.

Employees injured by the tornado in the discharge of their duties
cannot collect under the workman's compensation act unless they were deliberately sent out into the storm, Alroy S. Phillips, chairman of the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission, explained today.

Along the same lines, the Wisconsin Industrial Commission ruled yesterday that a Wisconsin salesman, injured in the tornado here, could not claim any benefits under the compensation act, since the tornado was one of the unforeseeable circumstances legally classified as
"acts of God."

"We made the same ruling in the Poplar Bluff storm," said Phillips. "If an employee was sent out into the storm, however, to perform some duty in connection with it—for example, if his employer, seeing that a storm was coming, sent him out to get an automobile off the street—his claim for any injuries suffered
would be considered."

MAN FLOGGED TWICE WITHIN WEEK BY UNMASKED GANG

Mechanic in Birmingham, Ala., Says He Doesn't Know Why;
Seeks Protection of Jail.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 7.—
For the second time within a week,
Robert Collins, 21 years old, a mechanic, is alleged to have been kidnaped and taken to a wooded section near here and flogged yesterday.

The first whipping as said to have been administered Sunday night. Both whippings occurred at the same place, Sheriff Hartsfield said.

Collins told officers that the same unmasked men were guilty of both floggings. Sheriff Hartsfield said he believed Collins was a victim of a bootleggers' gang.

Collins told officers he could assign no reason for the floggings.

Collins is in the county jail at his own request for protection, the Sheriff said.

DRUGGIST SHOTS AT TWO ROBBERS WHO RETURN FIRE

When two youthful robbers entered the drug store at 3330 North Union boulevard last night and,
with drawn revolvers ordered Frank Volkmar, who then was on duty to hold up his hands. Volkmar reached beneath a counter,
drew an automatic pistol kept
there for such an emergency and opened fire on them. The youths returned the fire, but all of their bullets went wide.

The druggist said he believes one of the shots he fired hit one of the youths, who staggered through the front door as they fled.

With Her Dying Wish.

DUNMOW, Essex, England, Oct.

In accordance with her expressed wishes on her death bed, the wedding took place at 9 o'clock

U. S. CLAIM AGAINST LEVINE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The Government will try to collect approximately $200,000 from Charles
A. Levine, backer of aviation enterprises, when he returns from Europe. There is a difference between Levine and the Government over war contracts. The Government has been threatening to take the matter to court, but will wait until Levine is back in this country.

There has been a lot of talk about the claim of the Government against Levine, and it has influenced the attitude of the Postoffice Department in letting mail contracts. War Department officials called the attention of the Department of Justice to the Levine contracts and the records covering them.

SEEK EXPANSION OF THE MISSISSIPPI BARGE SERVICE

Shippers' Committee Appeals Directly to Coolidge
to Improve Inadequate Equipment.

FREIGHT OFFERINGS
PASS LINE'S CAPACITY

Increase of Waterways Corporation's $5,000,000
Capital Stock to $50-000,000 Is Urged.

Post-Dispatch Bureau
26-23 Wyatt Bldg.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The Inland Waterways Corporation, created by Congress to give the land-locked states of the Mississippi Valley access to tidewater, has failed of its purpose. Though still operating as a common carrier, it has outgrown its equipment and is no longer able to maintain schedules or give dependable service.

This flat charge against the Government-owned Waterways Corporation, which operates the Mississippi-river barge lines was laid before President Coolidge
today by the barge line users' Special Committee, headed by J. D. Youmans, a member of the board of commissioners of the port of New Orleans.

The committee, composed of 44
manufacturers and shippers along the river, is scheduled to meet
Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis and also the advisory board of the Waterways Corporation. The committee is asking the administration to increase the capital stock of the corporation from $5,000,000 to $50,000,000 in order to build enough additional barges and tonnage to handle all the traffic offered the corporation.

Line's Capacity Overtaxed.

The committee's action was the result of a meeting in New Orleans,
Aug. 25, between barge line officials and barge line users. The committee includes such prominent shippers as William Butterworth,
president of Deere & Co., Moline, Ill.; S. S. Davis, president, Rock Island, Iowa; J. P. Haynes, traffic director, Chicago Association of Commerce; A. C. Wiprud, Minneapolis Shippers' Association;
W. T. Brooking, president, Marshall
Hall Grain Corporation, St. Louis;
H. H. Langenberg, president, Lan-enberg Brothers' Grain Co., St.
Louis; C. B. Fox, president, and L. E. Mitchell, assistant to the president of the Aluminum Ore Co., St. Louis.

"The line is not nearly taking care of traffic now offered, as is evidenced by its performance in handling some of the staple commodities," an announcement of the committee said. "For instance, on the lower river, northbound, the line handled in the last 19 months
an average of 600,000 bags of sugar
a month, while 1,550,000 bags a month were tendered.

"The actual importation of bauxite ore through the port of New Orleans for the first eight months
of 1927 was 176,142 tons gross.
The barge line carrying in the same period was 159,742 tons gross; tonnage about 40,000 tons had to be forwarded by rail at an additional cost of $1.50 a ton.

"Steel tendered by one firm during the same period exceeded 127-000 bales; only 22,864 bales were accepted. Other twine plants whose importation aggregated about the same amount were unable to obtain any service.

"Southbound shippers of grain
from St. Louis and beyond have requested during the last 90 days
barges for approximately 2,500,000 bushels of grain which, owing to the lack of equipment, the barge line was unable to furnish. The grain and the export market for grain were available. Last year a similar experience was had in the handling of cotton.

"Orders accepted on barge line bale often have to be executed on a rail basis, resulting in serious loss to the shippers and general dissatisfaction. On the upper river, all the barges now in service and in construction cannot begin to carry upstair charges is directed for Northwest distribution. These conditions apply equally to the Warrior division as well as to the Mississippi division.

Of Benefit to Farmer.
These deficiencies in equipment
and services have been allowed to accumulate for years, and must inevitably unless promptly remedied,
defeat the very object of Congress
in establishing this transportation system. Since the farmer cannot ity on the part of the line to transport the staple agricultural products is, of course, an injury to agriculture and is reflected immediately in the prices obtained. No in-

POOR CHURCH IN INDIA GIVES $3.62 TO U. S. FLOOD FUND

Gift Taken From Sum Set Aside for New Edifice in Satara.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, Oct. 7.—A check for $3.62 that represented contributions for the Mississippi flood fund from 60 members of the small and poverty-stricken Christian Church in Satara, India, was received here today by the American Board of Foreign Missions.

The money came from a sum which had been set aside from their meager savings to help build a much needed edifice, according to an accompanying letter from Miss Lillian Picken, a missionary at Satara.

She said the gift was inspired by news of a flood in Bombay,
which had just rendered 15,000 of their own countrymen homeless,
and by gratitude for American aid
in the past.

Miss Picken is supported by the Congregational Churches of New York State.

MERCHANT FLEET AIDS PROSPERITY, NEWTON SAYS

Former Congressman Tells Port Delegates How Waterways Are Linked With Transport.

Teeming inland waterways and a flourishing merchant marine are indissolubly linked essentials of a country's commercial greatness,
former Congressman Cleveland A.
Newton of St. Louis, head of the waterway bloc in Congress, for eight years, declared at last night's dinner of the American Association of Port Authorities at Hotel Statler.

Delegates to the convention today expected the railroad terminals of St. Louis by special train, with luncheon served in dining cars. The following and final session of the four-day meeting, the first ever held in an inland port,
which devoted to committee reports,
elections and an open discussion
on railroad absorption of port charges.

President L. W. Baldwin of the Missouri Pacific Railroad and J.
Spencer Smith, president of the association and of the New Jersey State Board of Commerce and Navigation, also spoke at the dinner, which followed an inspection, on the frigate Wells, of St. Louis harbor.

INCIDENT OF ST. LOUIS VISIT MAKES KING ALBERT LAUGH

Alderman Jokingly Declines to Be Classed as Accessible as Belgian Rulers.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Oct. 7.—A story whispered in King Albert's ear by Edward McB. Lewis, formerly of St. Louis and now of Washington, D. C., on the American Legion visitors' trip to Brussels recently, concerned an incident during the visit of King Albert and Queen Elizabeth to St. Louis in 1915, over which the king laughed heartily.

At that time Katherine Richardson, now Mrs. Lewis, as a reporter on a St. Louis paper, wrote a story saying that the king and queen
were as accessible as William Otto, Fourth Ward Alderman. Otto, meeting Miss Richardson later,
good-naturedly contended that the story wasn't correct as he, Otto,
had been the person in the story
with whom to gain audience, Kings and Queens not excluded.

dressed by former Gov. Hyde.

than the great agricultural district of Missouri Valley, which at this time is in need of every possible measure of relief."

Definite Program Sought

The committee stated that it was a logical assumption that in the future the Secretary of War should be authorized to state how much should be used each year to aid up the corporation to a point where it can adequately handle all the demand on the service," the announcement says.

garian groups operating in Macedonia, the Jugo-Slav Government has no other course but to recall him and to break off diplomatic relations.

The protest over the activities of the Bulgarian comitadjis, or irregulars, came as a result of the assassination yesterday of Brigadier-General Michael Kovachevitch, one of the best known officers in the Jugo-Slav army at Lajp, the crime being attributed to comitadjis.

The Serbian-Bulgarian-Macedonian frontier has been closed by Jugo-Slav Government troops and the capture of two of the best known officers in the Jugo-Slav army, under the martial law measures taken as a result of the assassination.

Clash on Border

Advisers received in Belgrade this afternoon said a band of Bulgarian comitadjis attacked the Macedonian frontier village of Kilsura early this morning, throwing nine bombs
at the city.

The attacking party, the advisers
said, finally was repelled after a pitched battle, lasting from 1 o'clock this morning until daybreak. The casualties were not given in the message.

Gen. Kovachevitch, known as the "Red" general, was shot down at the door of his home. The house is at the end of a cul-de-sac and the assassins left a lighted bomb
behind them to cut off pursuit.
Nevertheless, the capture of two of them was reported some hours later by Gen. Hazitch, head of the border troops.

Clash of Outrages.
Coming as the result of a series of alleged Bulgarian outrages over the frontier, the assassination caused such intense excitement in the border districts that the culprit decided to proclaim martial law there, and demands are heard for the surrender of the Bulgarian General Protogheoroff,
said to be the head of the roving
terrorist bands.

Kovachevitch participated in the dramatic revolt of 1923 in which King Alexander and Queen Dru-ga of Serbia were assassinated. During the World War he founded a troop of legionnaires. Recently he had been in command of the Twenty-First Infantry Regiment at Skopje.

Shot in Head and Heart.
Kovachevitch, who lived at the end of a narrow lane, had just arrived at the door of his home accompanied by a priest and a friend when three shots were fired. The second pierced the general's head and the third imbedded itself in his heart.

The assassins stood 15 paces away in a church portal at the end of the lane. On the spot where they stood they left a bomb,
alleged to be of Bulgarian origin,
with its fuse lighted to protect their retreat.

Jugo-slovia has offered a reward of 100,000 dinars (about $1750) for the arrest of the assassins. It is believed they are connected with all the recent outrages.

SANDERS STAKES OUT HIS CLAIM IN REED PRESERVES

Democratic Gubernatorial Aspirant Ready to Propose Indorsement of Senator for Presidency.

ONCE WAS ALLIED WITH OPPOSITION

Sedalia Meeting Wednesday Called as Harmony Affair, Developing Into Reed Jollification.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

Lon Sanders of Webster Groves
is the first of the actively campaigning prospective candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor to stake out his claim in the preserves of Senator Reed's presidential organization in Missouri. Sanders set the four corner stakes yesterday with an announcement that if the Reed organization favored the plan he would introduce a resolution for Reed's indorsement at the statewide Democratic barbeque and rally in Sedalia Wednesday.

He did not pull up the stakes of his old claim in the anti-Reed camp, probably because of the prospects that the apparently abandoned workings there might be reopened when the campaign gets under way, and he might want to work both prospects.

The Sedalia meeting, believed by many Democrats to have been called as a sort of harmony of the-factions-together affair, is rapidly developing into a Reed jollifi-cation. The Senator has engaged the entire parlor floor at the Terry Hotel for his entourage and will deliver the principal speech of the occasion. It is expected it will be the Reed platform for President.

The Senator is said to have put his foot down on any use of the word
"harmony" at Sedalia, his position
being that everybody should forget there ever had been a lack of harmony and should accept harmony
as a fact without comment.

Reed Camp Rights Desirable.
Under the conditions existing, it is not to be wondered that candidates for State offices should be attempting to establish prior rights
in the Reed camp, and Sanders seems to have established himself
at the head of the line.

It is hardly to be expected, however, that he will hold undisputed title because surely there will be others who will think they have rights antedating his. Then if the Reed camp becomes filled with candidates seeking to be known as Reed candidates, there might be one lone applicant who would not have been in the Reed camp and have the biggest turn in on election day.

There is no doubt that Senator
Reed, who had a difficult battle
five years ago to win the nomination for Senator, is in control of the party organization at this time.
He and his forces whipped the opposition and the opposition knows that it is willing to go over and

have the biggest turn in on election day.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress or reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A faux pas, as sure as you live.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE W. C. T. U. has criticized the Veiled Prophet Committee for choosing cigarette boxes as souvenirs of His Majesty's annual visit. And for once we are with the W. C. T. U. Has the cigarette box a raison d'être? We doubt it. Though it grieves us to say it, we feel the cigarette box is a faux pas. Had the committee been alert to what Cicerone called the tempora et mores—that is, had it been up on its toes—it would have selected pocket flasks. CORNUCOPIA.

The Truth About the Miners.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

FOR years the coal miners of Illinois have been waiting for a writer with nerve enough to tell the truth about their condition, and a newspaper with nerve enough to publish it. Paul Y. Anderson's article in Sunday's Post-Dispatch filled the bill. We had despaired of ever seeing anyone hit straight from the shoulder like your writer did in this article.

Coal miners have not much faith in the fairness of the big daily newspapers. Our observation has been that a man who owns a big newspaper is likely to be pretty friendly toward the man who owns a big coal mine. Among the thousands of men in Illinois who risk life and limb to maintain the comfort and prosperity of the rest of the people, the Post-Dispatch has made many friends simply by telling the truth about them.

WILLIAM G. DAVIS,
Secretary-Treasurer Sub-District No. 12, U. M. W. of A.

Western Union's Side of It.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IT is quite evident that a contributor to the "Letters From the People Column" of the Post-Dispatch had the wrong impression of the intention of the telegraph company, when a certain broadcasting station was asked to announce that our facilities, particularly our delivery department, were clogged with incoming messages on Thursday evening, inquiring about relatives and friends, and that it would be preferable for the people of St. Louis to wire their relatives and friends out of the city, so as to stop so far as possible the messages coming into St. Louis; many of them addressed in the storm area, which were overcrowding our delivery and preventing the telegraph company from moving the outgoing messages promptly.

Our local telephone facilities were entirely inadequate for the recording of telegrams. All day our offices were crowded with people Thursday night and Friday. We were trying to deliver messages by every means available—employing taxicabs and men with automobiles, also using Boy Scouts, but with all of this additional help the incoming messages swamped us.

With such a condition placed before the mental vision of A. B. C., he should not find it difficult to discover that instead of attempting to commercialize the tornado for the benefit of the telegraph company, our thought was to reduce the number of incoming messages so as to give the people of St. Louis an opportunity to notify their friends about their condition as a result of the storm.

The telegraph company during Thursday, Friday and Saturday was handling eight to ten times as much business as it normally would handle, and it certainly would be folly for us to try and develop more business, since our facilities were already overtaxed.

The only thought behind the request was to render a service to the people of St. Louis and vicinity.

G. M. HORTON,
City Superintendent.

Profiteering in Misfortune.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

AT least one speculator has already been observed in action in the tornado-swept district. In the hands of such a man a poor home owner already crushed by calamity would have little chance, indeed. Is there some way by which big business may be interested? It would seem that what is a good investment for a speculator ought to be of value to others. I am sure that many who are bowed down now will heartily appreciate any statement your good will and co-operation may dictate.

SCHOOL TEACHER.

"Antoine's" Is in New Orleans.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I READ with interest the letter from the one who dined at "Antoine's," and am consumed with curiosity to know where this delectable eating place can be found, having found it true as stated in a letter from another sufferer a few days ago that in St. Louis there is no restaurant, hotel or cafe where one can get a really good meal, because I know from experience that this is true. The chicken "a la Maryland," that Mr. Smith told of in the Post-Dispatch editorial, is apt to be dry as chips, the mashed potatoes watery, or, if that is not the case, then it's all alone cold. If there is such a place as was described, then I think the proprietor's fortune is made, as soon as he is properly advertised.

Yours for truth, J. W.

AN AIRPORT FOR ST. LOUIS.

Whatever else the Municipal Airport Plan and Scope Committee may decide upon as necessary to prepare St. Louis for commercial aviation, its final decision to submit a bond proposal for $700,000 to enlarge and equip the Lambert Field is wise.

It is essential that St. Louis have an adequate airport to put the city on the map of commercial aviation which is rapidly going forward in this country. It is the logical result of the Lindbergh flight, which put St. Louis on the aviation map of the world. That flight would lose its real significance and value to St. Louis if the city should fail to prepare for the full benefits of commercial aviation. It would be humiliating, not to speak of the great loss that such a course would entail.

The use of commercial aviation in Europe is a revelation to Americans who go there. Great airways stretch from London to the Continent, and the Continent is covered with a network of airplane routes. The air lines run all over Europe—into Russia, Turkey—they reach every city of importance, and every city of importance has its airport, where airplanes are constantly coming and going on schedule time, carrying full quotas of passengers, baggage, express and mail. It is necessary at nearly all the ports to obtain reservations well in advance of the time of flight.

Objection is made to the Lambert Field as the municipal airport on account of its distance from the city. It is true that the nearest center of the city airport is the better. But in most of the larger cities of Europe, such as London and Paris, the airports are some distance from the center of the city, and the distance does not work to any great disadvantage. Berlin is a notable exception. The military parade ground maintained under the empire offered an opportunity to equip an airport near the center of the city and Berlin has taken full advantage of the opportunity. It has a wonderful and very busy airport. The work of further equipping it with all the conveniences necessary to travel is still in progress. When finished it will be a great airplane terminal, comparable to the best railroad terminals, with every convenience, including hotel and restaurant accommodations for travelers. From Berlin the lines run in every direction over Germany and Europe.

What is happening in Europe with regard to commercial aviation is bound to happen in America. America will soon have airways gridironing the country, and the city without an adequate airport will be out of the march of progress. It will be comparable to a city without railroad terminals.

The Lambert airfield is convenient enough for all practical purposes. It is ready for enlargement and better equipment at a modest cost. It has served a useful purpose and may serve a far more useful purpose if it is prepared for the larger field of activity of the future.

We believe that if the necessity and value of an airport for St. Louis are clearly presented to the voters, they will approve the bond proposal. Meanwhile, through the generosity of Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, the city can use the present facilities of the field at a nominal rental. The city has an opportunity to profit by the great efforts and expenditures made by citizens for the air races. It has an opportunity to make St. Louis an important airport. This opportunity ought not to be missed.

NO HUM!

We were not among those who would have accused the Veiled Prophet committee of being a vicious influence in the community, but the W. C. T. U. has done so and that glum band, moreover, has proof. It has criticized the committee for its selection of cigarette boxes as souvenirs of His Majesty, the Prophet's annual visit. Certainly the committee did select cigarette boxes and certainly, in the eyes of the W. C. T. U., these are inherently evil because they will be used for cigarettes.

And, here, if you will pardon us, we will leave this distressing subject to see what the Warner boys are doing in the world series.

WIDENING ST. LOUIS OUTLETS.

Progress is assured in the important matter of widening some of the congested St. Louis outlets. A conference between city authorities and the State Highway Commission is planned, and serious attention will be given to traffic conditions upon outlets.

The Post-Dispatch has undertaken to stimulate interest in this subject by showing what other cities are doing. Detroit has a 190-foot outlet extending as far as Pontiac, which is 12 miles away. New York has two outlets carrying eight lines of traffic, and Los Angeles has one. The principal outlets of Boston, Baltimore, Cleveland, San Francisco, Philadelphia, Chicago and Washington, are being widened. St. Louis is the only big city in the country which is not widening its outlets.

To widen the St. Charles road as far as the Missouri River it will be necessary for the county to secure any necessary additions to the right of way, after which the State Highway Commission can, it is thought, widen the road. It is not believed that action by the Legislature will be necessary. The new width suggested is 40 feet. The present width is 18 feet. The cost of adding 22 feet would be less than the original costs were because the grades have been established. The original road cost $500,000, of which the Government paid half. It would probably pay half the cost of widening the road, which is the principal national highway across the State and the trunk line between St. Louis and Kansas City.

It is, at any rate, encouraging to know that we are moving in the matter. It is one in which all big cities are moving.

BAD NEWS FOR CENSORS.

The censors of England, who induced Parliament to forbid publication in the press of details of divorce proceedings, evidently didn't know that the surest way to make anything popular is to censor it.

When they asked Parliament to pass their pet measure they claimed that it would not only shield the public from demoralization by accounts of sensational matrimonial scandal, but that it would—in some way which its authors themselves couldn't quite make clear—bring about a decrease in divorces.

Now comes the sad news that it hasn't worked that way at all. Divorces, instead of getting fewer amongst the English, have become more numerous than ever. Censorship of divorce news has acted as a stimulant to divorces, just as censorship of books and other things act as stimulants to those things.

MEXICAN HISTORY.

Porfirio Diaz was elected President of Mexico in 1877. He was a revolutionary. He was a Serrano, a Gomez, a Carranza, an Obregon or a Madero. He was a liberator. He proclaimed the "plan of Tuxtepec," which was a pledge that he could not succeed himself. When his term of office expired he kept the faith. His secretary, Gen. Gonzalez, was elected to succeed him. The Gonzales administration was incompetent. Diaz was recalled to power. He was elected President in 1884, the Tuxtepec plan was junked and for 34 years Diaz continued in office, nominally President, actually dictator.

Madero's brief, dreamy interlude ended with a pistol shot. The assassin, Huerta, proved a feeble imitator of Diaz. Carranza appeared. The Constitution bearing his name was written. It undertook to prevent another dictatorship by making ineligible to reelection to the presidency the organic law.

Carranza's troubled reign collapsed in revolution and he himself was killed. The man of the new hour was Obregon. He differed in heritage, in training and, presumably in viewpoint, from Carranza and Madero, though he did share, it was believed, the latter's dream of transforming the peon into a freholder and a citizen. Obregon observed the letter of the law at the close of his term and was succeeded by Calles, school teacher, student, daring social philosopher and political alter ego of his predecessor.

The letter of the law against presidential succession stands, but the spirit of it has been destroyed. Calles, like Obregon, observes the injunction against succeeding himself in office, but there is nothing in the law, as now officially construed, to disqualify an ex-President for election to the presidency. Accordingly, Obregon is a candidate and has the support of the Calles administration, which assures election. The Calles-Obregon combination, apparently, means the rotation in the presidential office of those two men. It means a hyphenated dictatorship. It means that presidential elections in Mexico are a mere matter of form. It means that the ballot is a scrap of paper. It literally means rebellion and bloodshed, as Mexican history turbulently repeats itself.

Not until the decision by ballot means a fair decision, and there is confidence that the Government heads can be changed by ballot, will there be an end of rebellion and force to decide elections. The process of establishing election by ballot is slow.

"CONFORM OR KEEP OUT."

In an editorial called "Conform or Keep Out" Collier says:

There is no place in this country for immigrants who are hostile to our ways. Unless the newcomer is willing to cast his lot with us, he had best stay away.

Again, after recounting that this country was settled by Germanic people speaking English who planted here the customs and traditions of Ireland, Britain, France, Germany and Scandinavia, Collier says:

Their work was thorough. More than 25,000,000 immigrants have followed that original 80,000, but all subsequent recruits have had either to conform or to get out. The pattern of our life was drawn by our first comers, and we like it.

Collier overlooks the fact that among the traditions planted here were those of tolerance and freedom. For many decades after this country's foundation, it was the sanctuary for the oppressed and the politically disaffected peoples of the world. These peoples came to live among us and to help make us great.

Nowadays the spirit of tolerance and freedom has given way to a narrow nationalism and a fear that the "pattern of our life" may be disturbed. Collier's expresses widespread sentiment when it says "conform or keep out." We do not want new ideas any more. We do not want anyone who does not fit himself into the "pattern of our life," which is far from being the pattern of the founding fathers. The new pattern has been designed by the prejudices of professional patriots and the exigencies of Big Business. It necessarily scraps the ideals of the Declaration of Independence, and the precious heritage of Jefferson, Paine, Madison and Franklin.

Collier has succumbed to the prevailing dread of what are known as "hostile aliens."

HELP!

Here's Robert E. Olds, Under Secretary of State, back on the news stage. Remember Olds? He is the man who covertly inspired that famous yarn of a year ago about a horrendous Mexican plot to bolshevize Central America. Mr. Olds, just returned from a vacation in Europe, is discovered at his desk in the State Department conferring with Mr. Morrow, the new Ambassador to Mexico. He is helping to prepare Mr. Morrow for the latter's duties in Mexico City.

Help! Help!

THE VOLGA BOATMEN.

We all know about the Volga boatmen, whose majestic chantey has been intoned for us by Challaipin, but what do we know about boating on the Volga? Do we know that its volume makes our own efforts upon the Mississippi feeble by comparison? Do we know that there are operating on the Volga in the navigation season 200 freight and passenger steamers of $5,000 total horsepower and 50,000 total tons? Do we know that there are running upon the Volga in addition 544 steam tugs with a total of 163,500 horsepower, as well as 1190 nonsteam cargo boats with a total of 1,350,000 tons?

Of course not. It is said that all the average Russian knows about the Mississippi is what he has read in "Huckleberry Finn," and all we know about traffic on the Volga is that it is about the most musical anywhere. An announcement of service on the Volga passenger boats:

1. Daily Service Rybinsk—Astrakhan on the Volga. 2. Daily Service Nijny Novgorod—Perm on the Kama. 3. Daily Service Nijny Novgorod—Riazan—Moscow on the Oka. 4. Passenger Service on the rivers Kromskaya, Ujda, Sura, Vetluga, Ufa, Vitka, Belaya.

Immediate Railway Connection in every place. Another announcement in which it is shown into what distant parts of the world cargoes go from the Volga:

Transportation of Cargoes from any Port or Railway Station of the Union SSR to any Place of the Volga River and the Caspian, Azov and Black Sea.

Good things to remember the next time you hear the Volga boat song. You will know what the boatmen are singing about.

From the Lowell Courier-Citizen.

INDIGNANT moralists are protesting against the erection of a monument to Jesse James at Kearney, Mo. No moralist, however, is obliged by law to go to Missouri. He is still permitted to stay away from Kearney. It would be absurd to prevent the dedication of the James monument by "official action" from Washington, as has been proposed. Federal infringement upon state rights and municipal privileges has gone too far, already. If a self-respecting American community may not choose to honor its own murderers, where has American liberty gone? If Kearney, Mo., were to be denied the right to memorialize its most famous citizen, how can Herrin, Ill., fittingly depict in imperishable bronze the episode of its massacre? Who shall deny Chicago the jurisdiction over the income of its own Ferguson fund for erecting statues of its heroes, politicians and thugs in its public places? Let us bring this issue somewhat nearer home. Sooner or later Hartford may desire to express sculpturally its admiration of the late Gerald Chapman. What business would the national authorities have to interfere with a memorial project favored by public opinion in the Connecticut capital? It is indeed a political problem with many ramifications which the anti-James protesters are raising. Better let dead bandits sleep, even though under lofty and imposing monuments reared by a grateful population.

THE LOWERS AND UPPERS.

From the Providence Journal.

A YALE professor asserts that the "upper class" is gradually dying out. That gives encouragement to the hope that some day there may be a chance for us representatives of the lower classes. But when we recall the biological fact that today's "upper class" for the most part can trace its lineage to the lower classes of yesterday, it is hard to see how tomorrow is likely to be much different. The ebb and flow of the social tides will always be washing one class or another to the top.

MODERN TROUBADOURS.

HENRY M. HYDE in the Baltimore Sun.

HE appears only once or twice a year, in the same locality, at least. The last time was a recent Sunday morning about 3 o'clock. The first notice was the sound of a glorious tenor voice soaring up from the street. Adjacent windows were filled with eager faces. Just inside the walk, on the grass, stood a man who might still be called young. He wore white flannel trousers, a blue double-breasted coat and a light straw hat. As he sang he was playing a guitar. With him was a well-dressed young woman, who twanged a ukelele. She was singing also, but her voice was small and was quite drowned by the power and beauty of her companion's tenor.

In the volume and the quality of the man's voice, the apparent spontaneity and ease of his singing, there was something reminiscent to the lay ear, at least—of the great Caruso at his best. He sang "O Sole Mio" and half a dozen other airs and the silver pattered down like rain from the windows filled with delighted listeners.

Who is the modern troubadour, and why is he not singing in grand opera? He sometimes gives his performances as early as 6 o'clock in the morning and it is high testimony to the charm of his singing that people awakened from their sleep at that unusual hour are presently calling for repeated encores.

He brings a touch of color and melody into the modern city street and recalls pleasant memories of the great singers of Naples, warbling like so many nightingales in the moonlight.

BUT WE HAVE THE AIRPLANE.

From the Kansas City Post.

ONE trouble with us younger people is that there no longer is a West for restless youngsters to strike out for and build up. In the old days, when the East was tired of a young man it told him to go West, and that settled the trouble. He went to the frontier and found plenty of work and adventure.

But now we young people must remain at home and try to get thrills by burning dad's gasoline. If we should go West with a rifle, an ax and a wife we would run across cities and farms and seek in vain for a land where we could live off the country. The older people have taken the frontier from us and now it is their problem to find an outlet for our energy. We sons of sturdy pioneers are in need of a West.

NICARAGUA.

From the Arkansas Democrat.

"WILL the class in geography please rise, prepared to tell us about Nicaragua?"

When we were battling our way through the grammar grades our teacher generally started off the day's geography lesson about as we have quoted.

The answers ran about like this: "Nicaragua is one of the Central American states. It is situated between Honduras and Salvador on the north and Costa Rica on the south. It is bounded on the east by the Caribbean sea and on the west by the Pacific ocean."

Then perhaps some bright young fellow with a trend toward the diplomatic corps or maybe the chair of political economy would rise and tell about the form of government, prevailing language, resources, etc.

That was many years ago. John, many years ago. The geography class rises to-day and remarks about as follows:

"Nicaragua is a sore spot on Uncle Sam. It is populated by 'rebels' or 'bandits' the terminology depending upon the purpose of the State Department's official statements. It is the only spot where the United States marines have landed and not been able to wire back that the situation was 'well in hand.' It is the proving ground of aviators at bombing practice. Machine gunners also hold periodic maneuvers there. It is said that certain inhabitants of Wall Street have warm personal interest in that country."

Yes, stree, Nicaragua "just simply ain't what she was" when you and we were young, Maggie.

THE HIGHER FOOLISHNESS. By David Starr Jordan. (Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

HENSHAW WARD published a diverting book last year in which he described "the circus of the intellect," which is perfect. The greatest show on earth, certainly, just now it is no mere three-ring circus. Mr. Ward labored the engaging thesis, now fashionable, that only what has been learned through the eyes can be accepted as true. All ideas not accepted at through the optic nerve are described contemptuously as "hobbling." The term "hobbling" was formed from the three words by which the process of arriving at fanciful notions may be outlined—thinking, opinion, belief. A hobbling, then, about a given mystery, forms an opinion without sufficient data, and believes because he wants to do so. Hobbling is simply what our psychologists call "wishful thinking."

Mr. Ward need not have taken the trouble to invent his word, for as early as 1899 David Starr Jordan had already coined the term "sciosophy" from the Greek words for shadow and wisdom. It is by far the better term, having, as will be noted, the true scientific ring, whereas "hobbling" is a vulgarism, such as one might expect to find in the mouth of a mere layman.

"Sciosophy," then, is the "science of ignorance," and, as Bruno is said to have remarked, "Ignorance is the most delightful science in the world, because it is acquired without labor or pains and keeps the mind from melancholy."

"The Higher Foolishness" is a comprehensive treatise on Sciosophy, and anyone who has enjoyed the privilege of hearing Dr. Jordan talk soberly in a playful mood will know in advance that the book is full of chuckles. Since it is only human to be a sciosophist to a greater or less degree—generally the former by a considerable margin—the prospective reader is advised to have his sense of humor well oiled and in perfect working order before approaching the book. Unless he is so thoroughly sophisticated that he believes nothing at all, not even that he believes nothing at all, he is certain to have at least one of his sensitive intellectual corns vigorously stepped on by the erudite doctor, who is no lightweight, and this being true, it is a pity that every reader cannot see the kindly twinkle in the author's eye that always accompanies even his most severe ironies. Characteristically, the whole discussion is couched in the form of a very reasonable defense of the sciosophic attitude as evidenced, in practically every field of human thought and activity. As to the divine right of states, for instance, that

WOMEN'S BUILDING

CORNER STONE LAID

All Modern Making New Washington U. Structure Possible

Done by Feminine Hands.

A triumph of undergraduate feminism was celebrated yesterday in the laying of the corner stone of the $265,000 Women's building of Washington University by Mrs. Herbert S. Bradley, wife of the Chancellor.

The structure of Bedford stone and Missouri granite, in a Tudor Gothic style harmonizing with its other campus buildings except the new art school, will stand as an impressive but highly practical monument to three years of rummage sales, carnivals, benefit bridge parties and football game sales of "hot dogs."

It is as truly of, by and for women as a Middle Western tea. All the funds were raised by feminine efforts and industry. The gifts were by women. The building will be consecrated to the social, library, gymnasium and national demands of women students.

The dedication ceremony, except for the address of the Chancellor, read by his assistant, Dr. G. R. Thron, and even it added a voice to the soprano pean of victory.

"There is a day for the girls of Washington University and this is their day," exclaimed Mrs. Charles Pettus, chairman of the City Committee in the financial campaign.

Mrs. George O. Carpenter, who presided, read a financial statement of subscriptions amounting to $235,000 to be paid by the end of the year, after which $24,000 already has been paid. Gifts of $140,000 and $25,000 were given respectively by Mrs. William Elliot Smith of Allen and Mrs. Newton R. Wilson of Brentwood. The spectacle of girls selling "hot dogs" moved Mrs. Wilson to make her donation.

A list of the 15,000 donors, donors of yesterday's addresses, a history of the university, a description of the building and its purposes, and copies of the Post-Dispatch and Globe-Democrat were sealed in the corner stone.

The building will contain a gymnasium, cafeteria, rooms for social, religious and literary activities, a lounge, an alumnae room and of course for the dean of women and a gymnasium instructor. Architectural provision is made for an additional wing to contain a swimming pool and club rooms. And every bit of it is for women—exclusively.

Of Making Many Books

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

A Roman Holiday

THE HIGHER FOOLISHNESS. By David Starr Jordan. (Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

HENSHAW WAID published a book last year in which he described "the circus of the intellect," which is perhaps the greatest show on earth. Certainly just now it is no more than a ringed circus. Mr. Waid labored the engaging thesis, now fashionable, that only what has been learned through the eye can be accepted as true. All ideas not arrived at through the optic nerve are described contemptuously as "hobbling." The term "hobbling," explained, was formed from the initial letters of the three words by which the process of arriving at fanciful notions may be outlined—thinking, opinion, belief. A hobbling thinks about a given mystery, forms an opinion without sufficient data, and believes because he wants to do so. The hobbling is simply what our psychologists call "wishful thinking."

Mr. Waid has not taken the trouble to invent his word, for as early as 1895 David Starr Jordan had already coined the term "sciosophy" from the Greek words for shadow and wisdom. It is by the letter term having, as will be noted, the true scientific ring, whereas "hobbling" is a manifest vulgarism such as one might expect to find in the mouth of a mere layman.

"Sciosophy," then, is the "science of ignorance," and as Bruno is said to have remarked, "Ignorance is the most delightful science in the world, because it is accompanied with ease and labor and keeps the mind from melancholy."

"The Higher Foolishness" is a comprehensive treatise on Sciosophy, and anyone who has enjoyed the privilege of hearing Dr. Jordan talk soberly in a playful mood will know in advance that the book is full of cluckies. Since it is only human to be a sciosophist in a greater or less degree—generally the former by a considerable margin—the prospective reader is advised to have his sense of humor well oiled. In perfect working order before approaching the book. Unless he is so thoroughly sophisticated that he believes nothing at all, not even that he believes nothing at all, he is certain to have at least one of his sensitive intellectual corns vigorously stepped on by the erudite doctor, who is no lightweight, and this being true, it is a pity that every reader cannot see the kindly twinkle in the author's eye that always accompanies even his most sober ironies.

Characteristically, the whole discussion is couched in the form of a very reasonable defense of the sciosophic attitude as evidenced in practically every field of human thought and activity. As to the divine right of states, for instance, Dr. Jordan observes: "For without mystic privileges or divine intervention, the modern state would be deprived of its most extensively practiced right, that of taking the lives and property of its own people in order to destroy the lives and property of others across its borders."

In the same manner the author argues the case against evolution and takes a firm stand for Fundamentalism, seeming to arrive at the conclusion that "Heaven and earth, center and circumference, were created together, in the same instant, with clouds full of water, on Oct. 23, 4004 B. C., at 9 o'clock in the morning."

Then about the time the Fundamentalist is becoming angry, having suspected that he is being "kidded" by one of those informal mechanists with no appreciation of the finer things, human or divine, suddenly the Behaviorist doctrine is seized upon without the same devastating method. You never know when you are safe in this book, for just as you are beginning to feel quite at home with one who reveals so jocularly the deplorable sciosophies of others, he seems to receive dear faith of your own receives a wallop.

The electronic theory, socialism, single tax, the tariff, spiritism, telepathy, relativity, Christian Science, eclecticism of all persuasions, sun spots and crime waves, or what have you?—nearly everything that anyone may believe or suspect, except only that which is demonstrated beyond question by the plodding method of science as now understood, comes in for similar treatment.

It's a human holiday, one freely grants. But, doubtless because it is human to be sciosophic, there are moments when one wonders if, by any chance, there might not be a slight touch of sciosophy in the author's method. This suspicion is strengthened when, at the end of the book, Dr. Jordan asks: "Have we indeed had the last word concerning anything in the universe?" And there are a great many anti-sciosophists in the world just now who, upon reading the Doctor's very favorable comment on the existence of God, might deem the Doctor himself convicted of sciosophy.

Also, one wonders, if it has ever been shown as yet that human nature is so constituted as to be happy with only such facts as may be demonstrated to the senses. Dr. Jordan himself holds to the idea of God. And is there not some significance in the historical fact that great human cultures have flourished only so long as the particular "sciosophies" upon which they were based were still taken seriously?

And may there not be some vital relation between the increasing literal-mindedness of our time and the widespread mood of despair that our literature reveals?

A high tariff helps the American working man, we are assured, so the diplomats must be several other fellows.

A universal language is held to be a panacea for war. But if we had a universal language, all the belligerents would be able to read the uncompromising things the other belligerents say about them, and that, in our opinion, would provoke more war.

CHEESE SALADS

ARE INTRIGUING

This Type of Food Answers the Housewife's Demand for Something New.

For Savory Hot Vegetables Few Sauces Rival Hot Butter.

The question how shall I cook the parsnips, cabbage, turnips or vegetables for today's dinner can be answered in one word, "buttered." The reason vegetables are not served buttered often is because they are because the modern school of cookery centers around extension dishes and butter is numbered in the extension list except as a component part of sauce and dressings.

Butter, though, does make a most delicious dressing for practically all the vegetables, leafy, pot or underground. Buttered vegetables are easily prepared, as three directions indicate.

Buttered Turnips. Wash, pare and cut turnips into slices. Cover with boiling water and cook until soft, about twenty minutes. Drain and serve with butter and pepper.

Buttered Onions. Select onions of the same size. Drop into boiling water and boil gently for forty minutes, with the cover off. Season with salt, pepper and butter.

Buttered Cabbage. Cut cabbage into fine pieces for cole slaw. Wash and cook in rapidly boiling water for several minutes only, counting from the time the water starts to boil. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and serve with melted butter.

Buttered Cauliflower. Wash and separate cauliflower into flowerets. Cover with boiling water and cook until tender, about 20 minutes. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and serve with melted butter.

Buttered Parsnips. Wash, clean and scrape parsnips. Cut in halves lengthwise; drop into boiling water and boil gently until soft. Drain and serve with butter and pepper.

Buttered Beets. Scrub beets clean; cover with searing water and boil gently until tender, from thirty-five minutes to two hours. Drain, halve and plunge into cold water so that skins may be easily removed. Serve with butter, salt and pepper.

Two-Dollar Meal for Six. Here is a tempting, well-balanced dinner for six persons—from broth to demi-tasse—and it all costs out of a $2 bill.

Clam Broth
Sautéed Crabs
Meat Loaf with Pineapple
Baked Potatoes
Whole Wheat Bread
Lettuce Salad
Marshmallow Sponge
Demi-tasse

Value of Tomatoes. Weight for weight tomatoes, raw or canned, rank with lettuce and green string beans as sources of vitamins A and B, and with oranges and lemons as sources of vitamin C. In fact, they contain more vitamins per pound than any other canned food and more than any food except fresh milk.

When Milk Burns. Place the pan in a larger pan of cold water. Put a pinch of salt in the milk and beat a minute and the burnt taste will disappear.

Brooks

Makes Everything Taste Better
Original Tobacco Flavor
CATSUP

Made from whole, juicy, tempting Tomatoes. The most wholesome and economical table requisite you can buy. Order a bottle to-day. YOUR GROCER SELLS BROOKS

富士油
A half cup of raisins or currants and a half cup of white seedless grapes, mixed with an eight-ounce cheese and frozen, gives a somewhat different kind of salad, something more to chew on and usually a favorite one with children.

Molded Cheese Salad. Dishes made from a combination of both gelatin and cheese make an especially nourishing salad. Next time your summer meal "seems to lack something" try soaking a tablespoon of gelatin into one-quarter of a cup of cold water. When dissolved, let it cool and whip in one-third of a cup of cream. Have ready three-quarters of a pound of grated cheese and fold this into the gelatin mixture. Pour in the mold and chill.

THE VERSATILE OLIVE

We have served Olives so long—just as Olives, that we hardly realize their possibilities of garnishing or adding piquancy of flavor to a dish.

1. A Stuffed Olive rolled in a slice of bacon and fastened with a toothpick, baked or broiled, makes a most tempting appetizer or accompaniment to a meat dish.

2. Olives, green or ripe, sliced or chopped fine are delicious added to white sauce or a brown meat gravy. Use 1/2 cup Olives to 1 cup sauce, or try this Olive-Tomato sauce.

3. Olives, green or ripe, sliced or chopped fine are delicious added to white sauce or a brown meat gravy. Use 1/2 cup Olives to 1 cup sauce, or try this Olive-Tomato sauce.

4. The bright red and green of stuffed olives allied gives a festive air to a creamed dish, salad, roast, steak, or even scrambled eggs and omelets. And you will find the flavor is improved, too, by their use.

5. Ripe olives chopped may very easily take the place of mushrooms in a dish. The flavor and appearance after cooking is much the same.

Try the Olive-bacon appetizers and the Olive-Tomato Sauce, and you will like them.

AN EASY WAY TO SAVE MONEY

OYSTERS ARE SEASONABLE

IN THIS SECTION OF THE UNITED STATES Fall Oysters in the Oyster Season.

Besides being the month when the children return to school, September is also the month when the oyster resumes its season in our inland cities.

There are endless ways of preparing these shell fish for the table. Among the most popular are broiled oysters, pan-fried oysters and oyster cocktail, recipes for which follow.

Broiled Oysters.
One pint selected oysters, one-quarter cup melted butter, two-thirds cup seasoned cracker crumbs.

Clean oysters and dry between towels. Lift with plated fork by the tough muscle and dip in butter, then in cracker crumbs which have been seasoned with salt and pepper. Place in a buttered wire broiler and broil over a clear fire until the juices flow, turning while broiling. Serve with or without a maitre d'hotel butter.

Panned Oysters.
Clean one pint large oysters. Place in dripping pan small oblong pieces of toast, put an oyster on each piece, sprinkle with salt and pepper and bake until oysters are plump. Serve with lemon butter.

Oyster Cocktail.
Six small raw oysters, lemon juice, tabasco sauce, salt, grapefruit.

Cut grapefruit in halves crosswise, remove tough portions and add oysters seasoned with tabasco, lemon juice and salt.

Two tablespoons flour, two cups milk, one and one-half cups corn, one teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon pepper.

Make a white sauce by blending butter and flour, and gradually adding milk; cook until smooth and thick; put corn through food chopper and add to white sauce with salt and pepper. Serve with crackers.

Cornmeal Muffins.
Mix one cupful of cornmeal, a half cupful of wheat flour, a teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of baking powder and a tablespoonful of sugar together. Add beaten yolks of two eggs, a half cupful of milk and a tablespoonful of soft butter. Beat all well until smooth, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Fill buttered warm muffin rings three-quarters full. The rings should be arranged on a hot greased griddle for the cooking.

Rice and Cheese.
Boil one-half cupful of rice in a quart of salted water till tender, but not broken. Drain, rinse with cold water, place in layers in a buttered baking dish, alternating with thin layers of cheese, salt and minute shreds of onion and green pepper. When the dish is full, pour over it two cupfuls of strained tomato pulp. Bake half an hour in a moderate oven, then top with thinly sliced bacon and bake until crisp and brown.

Remove Stains With Salt.
A little salt and bicarbonate of soda dissolved in warm water will remove tea and coffee stains from china cups.

Concerning Chocolate.
Someone has discovered that chocolate is our favorite national flavor, whether in confectionery, cooking, cakes or beverage.

WALTER BAKER & CO., Inc. Est. 1780 Dorchester, Mass.

"With milk—perfect!"

"—made with milk, a cup of Baker's Cocoa offers the body indispensable food value, with delicious flavor"—says a famous child specialist. Not only does its aromatic natural flavor encourage children to drink milk, but its natural food-value combines with milk as though each were made for the other—for you.

Doctors generally give Baker's to their own children.

If you like oatmeal now—you'll love it this new way

BOYS and girls love anything flavored with vanilla. That gave us an idea. Why not add vanilla to oatmeal and other cereals that children, as a rule, do not relish? We asked Caroline B. King, the noted food authority, to make the tests. The results more than exceeded our expectations, for Mrs. King reported that the addition of a little Price's Vanilla to oatmeal gave it a delicacy of flavor that made the cereal a delicious treat. Try it. Your children will love oatmeal and other cereals prepared this new way. The new booklet, "35 Appetite Helps for Mother," written by Mrs. King, is full of ways to make cereals tempting to children—and adults as well. Sent free on request. Address

SECRET OF GOOD PIE CRUST

Tip on How to Prevent Crust From Shrinking Away From the Pan.

A good many beginners at cooking—and some more experienced cooks, as well—are puzzled by the shrinking of pie shells away from the pan during baking. Sometimes they do not shrink at all; again, crust made exactly the same way will draw away until almost no rim at all is left.

Baking in a hot oven, so that the crust crisps before it has a chance to shrink, is the secret of the satisfactory pie shell. If the oven heat has just been turned on, or if there is only a medium heat, the fat particles in the dough are melted, allowing the composition of the crust to break down.

THE WINTER DIETARY

DEMANDS MORE MEAT

A Substantial Meat Dish Should Be Served Every Day at Dinner.

Scrambled is a nice way to use leftover baked lamb. Cut up two cups of cold cooked lamb into cubes. Beat four or five eggs well, season and add four tablespoons milk. Mix in the lamb with the eggs and scramble it all in a frying pan.

This makes a nice luncheon or dinner dish if served on a hot plate with French fried potatoes piled around the meat.

Steak and Kidney Pie.
To make the pie crust take one cup flour, one-fourth teaspoon baking powder, three-eighths teaspoon salt, six tablespoons shortening, four to five tablespoons water.

For the filling take one pound of beef steak off the top of the round, six lamb kidneys, twelve mushrooms, two hard-cooked eggs, one small onion, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon mixed herbs and one quart of water.

Sift dry ingredients, cut in shortening with a knife. Add water, cutting into a soft dough. Pat and roll out.

Cut meat and kidneys into small pieces; add water and onion and bring to boiling point. Let cook gently for forty-five minutes. Let cool; when cold add sliced or chopped eggs, mushrooms and herbs. Turn into deep dish, cover with crust and bake in a moderate oven for thirty-five minutes.

Potted Pork Shoulder.
Take five pounds of pork shoulder, one-fourth cup flour, two teaspoons salt, one teaspoon pepper, four tablespoons melted butter, oil or other shortening or drippings, two slices onion and one bay leaf.

Wash meat clean, then roll in flour, which has been sifted with salt and pepper. Place oil or drippings in frying pan and when hot, but not smoking, sear meat thoroughly on all sides, then put in covered kettle or Dutch oven with slices of onion and bay leaf, and allow forty minutes to a pound.

Smoked Picnic Ham.
Cover the meat with cold water, bring to boil. Add a cup of sliced onions and three-quarters cup of diced celery, and a tablespoon of mixed whole spices. Lower flame, simmer meat until tender, about three hours. Remove picnic ham from liquor, skin it, dust the fat thickly with brown sugar and bread crumbs, place it in a roasting pan with one-half cup of the liquor, two tablespoons vinegar and one-quarter cup brown sugar. Bake one-half hour, basting with the liquor once or twice.

Chicken in Aspic.
Take a fowl and wash it clean. Cover fowl with boiling water, add one teaspoon salt, celery foliage and one slice of onion; cook gently till tender. Remove the chicken from the stock and cool. Strain three cups stock and add one and one-half tablespoons gelatin which has been softened in one-half cup cold water and dissolved thoroughly. Set aside gelatin mixture until it has cooled to a molasses about as thick as molasses. Fold in the chicken, which has been cut in small pieces. Add the following cooked vegetables: one cup carrot balls, one cup shoe-string turnips, one cup peas and one cup string beans. Turn into a pan or mold and set aside until firm. Slice just previous to serving or else place on platter and slice at the table.

Fine and Trouble Spent in Preparing These Chicken Dishes

Are Well Expended.

Chicken, either left-over or freshly cooked, is attractive when served as chicken steaks. To make this dish, take two cups finely shredded chicken, two cups finely shredded crumbs, one-half cup celery, one-fourth cup green peppers, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one egg, four tablespoons butter, one tablespoon onion juice and flour.

Cook finely chopped celery and green pepper in four tablespoons butter five minutes. Mix chicken, crumbs, celery, green pepper and seasonings together with egg form into individual steaks and dust lightly with flour. Put into hot frying pan, browning to golden color on both sides. Remove to hot serving platter.

Chicken loaf calls for one cup chicken stock, two cups cooked chicken, one tablespoon onion, one tablespoon green pepper, one and one-half cups soft bread crumbs, two eggs, one teaspoon salt, one tablespoon parsley, one tablespoon baking powder and one-half cup pistachio nuts.

Cook finely chopped onion and green pepper in three tablespoons chicken stock five minutes. Mix finely chopped, cooked chicken, crumbs, egg yolks, cooked vegetables, salt and minced parsley with remaining chicken stock. Beat egg whites until frothy, add baking powder and beat until stiff, and with coarsely chopped nuts fold into first mixture. Turn into casserole or loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven forty-five minutes.

Make Note of This.
There is no reason why the housewife can't have "an afternoon off" several times a week if she plans and cooks wisely.

EATING RAW VEGETABLES

Modern Food Experts Agree It Is a Commendable and Wise Habit to Form.

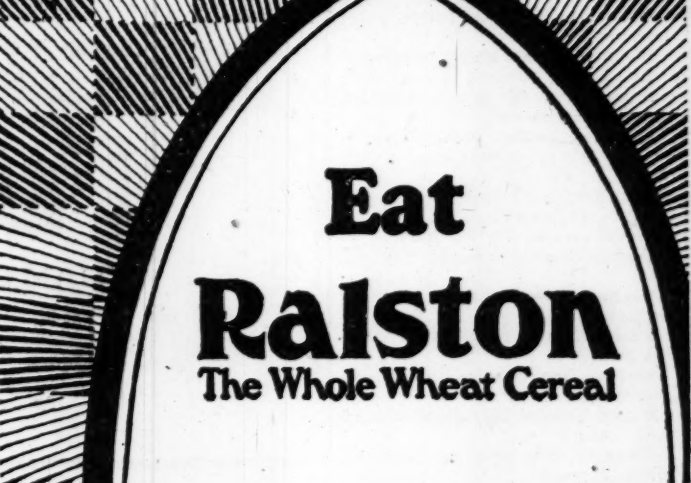

Time was when this was literally nothing but a fad. We were counseled to nibble raw carrots and swallow bunches of lettuce. Furthermore, we are told, in more or less frightening language, about the dire ill that would follow unless we subsisted largely on raw foods. But times have changed. Today, the very principle which lay at the bottom of the old-time raw food fad has been studied until raw food takes its proper place as an important element in a well-balanced dietary.

Today we no longer think of raw foods as possessing virtues simply because they are raw. We know that they have special virtues, and up to a certain point these are due to the fact that the foods are eaten in the fresh state.

Let us eat some raw food daily by all means, but let us realize that we are eating it because fresh fruits and vegetables are among the best sources of at least two of the most important vitamins.

This week ... get Rinso
and save work next washday

Neighbors will envy your whiter wash—no scrubbing ~ no boiling ~ so clothes last longer

YES, just that—soaked clean! Soaked whiter and brighter than you could get them the old scrub-and-rub way!

Forget about the washboard—you don't need it. Never mind boiling, either. Rinso whitens without boiling—sterilizes, too!

Watch dirt float off
This amazing granulated soap is all you need on washday. It makes even the hardest water soft and soapy all through. The creamy suds loosen dirt and stains so they float off by themselves. The wash is left spotless and sparkling—whiter you ever saw!

No other laundry soap rinses out so quickly, so completely as Rinso. Best of all, it takes the dirt with it as it rinses. That's why it's called Rinso!

Saves hands—clothes, too
Washday hands—red and coarsened—are the result of endless washboard rubbing. But this soak-and-rinse way saves your hands.

Saves the clothes, too! No need to rub things thin against a board. The most soiled parts come clean with a gentle rub or two between the fingers.

And Rinso is so safe. Contains no acids or bleaches of any description. Economical, too—it's not fluffy chips but closely packed granulated soap.

Try soaking clothes clean this very week. Follow easy directions on package for economy and best results.

There Is Always a Demand For Good Bakery Pastry

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Health Commissioner of New York City.
United States Senator From New York.

In the United States are 15,000 bakeries. At least that is what the Commerce Department reports. Doubtless there are thousands more which escaped the census taker.

What do you suppose was the money value of the pastries turned out by these bakeries? What was the worth of the bread, cakes and pies produced in a single year? The figures are almost unbelievable.

The commercial bakeries turned out over a billion and a quarter dollars worth of these food stuffs. To be exact, according to the Commerce Department, the cash value of the bakery products reached the enormous sum of $1,277,733,103. This is said to be an increase of about 13 per cent over the preceding year.

These figures, great as they are, do not indicate that people are eating more pastries than they ever did. To my mind these sales show that we are depending more and more upon the commercial bakeries for what used to be made in the home.

With the growth of the cities, more families are living in cramped quarters without kitchen facilities. Even though the little apartment has a kitchenette, it is not suited for "baking" as ordinarily understood. It will do very well for making tea and toast, or warming up food bought at the delicatessen store. Pies and bread are rarely made in kitchenettes.

But it is not alone in the cities that home baking is being abandoned. The motor truck is carrying to the villages and outlying sections large quantities of bakery products.

There is an increasing dependence upon the commercial bakers because they are producing such fine products. When I was a boy even my voracious appetite recognized the difference between the bakery product and that which mother made. This is not the case at present.

There will always be a demand for cakes, pies and other pastries. There should be. They are just as much food as bread is. Indeed many pastries are bread plus sugar. I am glad the pastry sales have been so great. It means that our citizens are being properly nourished. It means they are prosperous and can afford to buy food. From every standpoint we should rejoice that the pastry sales are large.

Beans, to be readily digested, must be well cooked and thoroughly masticated. Eaten under these conditions, beans are digestible and exceedingly nutritious.

MAKE A FRUIT ANGEL FOOD

Have you ever tasted fruit angel food? If this pleasure has been denied you, make one of these cakes after the following recipe: Take nine egg whites, one cup flour, one teaspoon cream of tartar, one and one-fourth cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon vanilla and one cup prunes (washed in hot water, boiled ten minutes, drained and chopped). Sift sugar twice, sift flour four

Milk-Fed Fatted Spring Chickens

Fed upon oatmeal, cornmeal and buttermilk about eight to twelve days before killing and dressed most scientifically. The birds are hung on racks immediately after dressing, then taken into modern refrigerating rooms where the animal heat is eliminated by a cool-air process.

The milk-fed process fattens the bird. Through the dry-picked method the original sweet flavor is retained as well as the superior quality and tenderness, and at the same time the old method of water-soaking is eliminated.

SERVICE CAR BOND BILL TAKEN IN ADVISEMENT

Aldermanic Committee Holds Hearing on Regulatory Ordinance of Safety Council.

Following a two-hour hearing on proposed regulation of service cars, the Legislative Committee of the Board of Aldermen yesterday took under advisement their decision on a bill now pending.

The bill, introduced by Alderman Waldman for the Safety Council, provides a license fee of $25 a year for each service car, limits the charge to 25 cents for each passenger for each car, unless the same operator has three or more, in which case the bond would be $10,000. The purpose of the bill, it was explained, is to protect passengers or others who may be injured by a service car.

Robert E. Lee, president of the Safety Council and secretary of the Automobile Dealers' Association, told the committee there were a number of "fly-by-night" service car drivers, who purchase cheap used cars on the installment plan and, after making their first payment begin carrying passengers. He said investigation showed that frequently these machines had ineffective brakes.

It was recommended by some of those at the meeting, among them Police Captain Glasgow of the Traffic Division, that Waldman's bill be amended to provide for revocation of any driver's license in case of persistent violation of any sections of the proposed ordinance. Waldman agreed to this amendment.

An attorney for the St. Louis Service Drivers' Association said he did not believe the city had the authority to demand a bond. He recommended that this part of the bill be amended to specify that each driver must carry insurance to protect his passengers. A. Utendorfer, president of the association, said an insurance agency has promised to issue a blanket policy to cover all of the drivers in the organization with a limit of $10,000 for any one accident.

A WEATHER REPORT FROM THE BEYOND.

It so happened that in the same small Southern town there lived two men named James Brown. One of these was a real estate agent and the other was a clergyman. One day after the funeral, the other James Brown took a trip to Florida. When he reached his destination he sent a wire to his wife but, owing to a mixup, the telegram instead of being delivered to the right Mrs. Brown it was handed to the widow of the deceased clergyman. This lady was astonished to read the following: "Arrived safely, but the heat here is terrific. James." (Copyright, 1927.)

WIVES OF FAMOUS AMERICANS

By Gamaliel Bradford.
No. 1 — Mrs. Abraham Lincoln

Personality of the Helpmate of the Great Emancipator—Not a Social Success, and Sometimes Impulsive Temper Made Her Taciturn.

MRS. LINCOLN married Lincoln with condescension and level, or even above it. He did, and so far as to be altogether beyond her limited power of ascent. She made a real estate agent, a lawyer in Springfield, Ill. As the wife of the great dreaming, smiling, creating democratic statesman of the modern world, she was just a trifle over-parted. She had a nimble gift of words, and wrote with ease when she wished. Her natural intelligence was unquestionably shrewd, quick, and keen. Within her limits she was the nature of things and the motives of men, and she had a notable faculty of making observations upon them, often with a turn of wit and sarcasm which did not add to her popularity. That she had a trace of the larger humorous attitude seems unlikely, and it is still more unlikely that she ever grasped or enjoyed that attitude in the subtle, pervading, attitude in form which was constantly manifest in her husband. As to Mrs. Lincoln's religion, there is a good deal to be said on the practical side. She was generous and kindly, ready to help and to give. Sordard's account of her hospital visit during the war is very attractive. She made no display, sought no publicity what she just went and gave and was gratified. In regard to the higher elements of spiritual life she was probably rather conventional, though she was a faithful member of the Episcopal, and then of the Presbyterian Church.

SOCIALLY it is evident that she was ambitious and eager for success. On the whole, it cannot be said that she achieved it. Her appearance was by no means against her. Her features, her eyes, her hair, her complexion, it is to me totally without charm. It is a positive aggressive face, without a ray of sweetness in it. But, even in the heaviness of her features, she had a certain formal beauty and dignity, both of face and figure, and could bear herself well. It would seem that she dressed with taste, though at times too ostentatiously, and Lincoln objected to her extreme low neck.

There are pleasant accounts of the Lincoln hospitality in Springfield. As to what happened in the White House, observers differ. But it must be remembered that few hostesses have been subjected to such cruel criticism as Mrs. Lincoln had to meet.

The truth is, her ardent and impulsive temper made her tactless and uncertain. People could not count upon her, and it is said that she changed her intimates and social advisers too frequently. The lack of her social real was rather an intense ambition than a broad human sympathy, and for the wide popularity and success the latter is indispensable. Then it must always be remembered that she had the strange, incalculable, most undomestic and unpardonable figure of Lincoln to carry with her, which would have been a terrible handicap to any woman.

His dress was strange, his manner was strange, his talk was strange. And there was always that flood of homely stories, speaking with the unexpected. He would not lay himself out to be agreeable to his wife's callers. Not that he was untidy. This is always justly denied. But he was magnificently inappropriate, disconcerting. So if the poor lady liked, it must be admitted that she had her difficulties.

It is with her children that Mrs. Lincoln is most attractive. Both she and Lincoln were devoted to them. In his gentle, humorous, abstracted fashion, she with no doubt erratic but effusive and genuine demonstrations of tenderness. She was interested in their education, in their health, in their mental and moral development. But fate was as cruel to her in the domestic as in the conjugal relation, and she lived to bury three of her four sons. The eldest died in the early days in Springfield. The youngest, Tad, who was her chief consolation after her husband's death, so that she wrote, "Only my darling Tadde prevented me taking my life," was snatched away in 1871. But the death of Willie, in the midst of the at once anguished and triumphant days in the White House, was the bitterest blow of all.

MRS. ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

ing bond of association overcoming all sorts of wear and tear and pulling and hauling. Her violent outbursts on small occasions are matter of record, and it is impossible to put aside altogether the scenes of furious, disgraceful public jealousy described by Badeau and confirmed by General Sherman. Lincoln took it quietly, though it must have wrung his heart, patted her on the shoulder, called her his child-wife, and she was ashamed of herself—and did it again.

It is clear that Mrs. Lincoln was a person who naturally tended to dominate those about her. Could she dominate her husband? In little things, he was no doubt yielding enough, to her and to others, as appears from his loose remarks that it was fortunate he was not a woman, since he never could say no. When it came to great matters, especially moral, he may not have bothered to say no, but he did what he thought right, without the slightest regard to the demands of others.

MRS. LINCOLN's chief wrestle was with her husband's social peculiarities. Here she was obviously in part successful and it would be questioned that her experience and knowledge of the world were of great benefit. At the same time, from his boots to his hat, and through all the long six feet between, the man was thoroughly and conventionally and nothing could make him otherwise. In the early married days in Springfield he would open the door himself in his shirt sleeves and assure august visitors that his wife would be down as soon as she could get her trotting harness.

When a friend said to her, "Mary, if I had a husband with such a mind as yours, has, I wouldn't care what he did," she answered, "It is foolish—it is a small thing to complain of."

On broader matters, less naturally within her sphere, even in the conduct of the war, Mrs. Lincoln evidently had her word. What wife would not? And sometimes it was the apt and poignant one. How characteristic is her retort to Stanton, who proposed to have her painted as she appeared at Fort Stevens, when she had come under fire: "That is very well, and I can assure you of one thing, Mr. Secretary, if I had had a few ladies with me, the rebel-soldiers would not have been permitted to get away as they did."

Large military policy was perhaps beyond her, but she gave her sharp, quick judgment of military commanders, bearing but, to some extent, her husband's admission that she had quicker insight into character than he.

WITH politics Mrs. Lincoln was of course more interested and more at home than in military details. She watched her husband's career from the time of her earliest acquaintance with him and followed every step of it with the intensest ardor. It is clear enough that back of Mrs. Lincoln's political interests and indeed back of all her life there was a tremendous driving force of ambition. There is much debate whether she had more ambition or he. They were different in this, as in everything. His ambition was vague, dreamy, fitful, mystical. Hers was narrower, more concrete, but it never rested, and

RECIPES FROM "My Old Virginia Cook Book"

Ice Cream Cake.

TAKE 2 cups of powdered sugar, 1 cup of butter, 1 cup of milk, 1 cup of cornstarch, 2 cups of flour, the whites of 3 eggs, 2 teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a little salt, and flavoring to taste (vanilla or bitter almond). Cream the sugar and butter until very light. Add the milk, beating it well. Now mix together and sift the cornstarch, flour, salt and baking powder, and beat them into the mixture. Lastly add the whites of eggs which have been beaten very stiff, and then the flavoring. Bake in a round angel-cake pan or it can be baked in layers.

For icing for filling and for top: Take 3 cups of sugar, 1 cup of hot water and the whites of 2 eggs. Put sugar and water in a bowl and stir until dissolved. Then boil until it will spin a thread when dropped from the spoon. Now stir the syrup slowly into the well-beaten whites of eggs, add flavoring and a little salt, and continue stirring until stiff enough to put on cake without running. Iceing should get too stiff, add a few drops of cream or milk. (Copyright, 1927.)

Problems Are Not of Place

By Lucy Lowell

THERE are those who believe that the hill far away is greener and the rose in the next yard sweeter. And once in a while there are no hindering circumstances that that hill out there on the horizon and the happy life that would be contrived to their advantage and there would be no such problems as perplex them in the place where they are.

And once in a while there are no hindering circumstances that that hill out there on the horizon and the happy life that would be contrived to their advantage and there would be no such problems as perplex them in the place where they are.

Problems are not of place, they are things of mind and are carried wherever the one to whom they belong may go.

And it is likely that there will be another far-away hill, greener of course and more inviting. And perhaps the wanderer will journey to this, only again to be disappointed. "Every ship," wrote Emerson, "is a romantic object except that it is a vessel of iron and steel, and mance quits our vessel and hangs on every other sail in the horizon. Our life looks trivial and we shun to record it."

The real problem, of course, and the one to be solved by every one who would be happy is that of acquiring a true sense of values. Understanding that the thing you have is as desirable as the thing you have not if you will but make the most of it.

What is said of distance may also be said of impossibility—that it lends enchantment. But it is an illusory sort of enchantment, vague and unsatisfying while that which is near you is vital and real.

It would be hard to imagine anything lovelier for an evening frock than one of the new chiffons delicately embroidered in gold or silver thread.

Caring for YOUR Complexion

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D., Former President of the American Medical Association.

WHEN I speak of your complexion, I allude to the color and normal quality of the skin of your face. Your complexion is one effective element of your natural and instinctive appeal for admiration. It is a chief constituent of physical beauty in both men and women, and neither can afford to ignore it. Your face is the most exposed part of your body, and is never protected from the attacks of dust, dirt and wind. No part of the skin, therefore, requires so much careful attention.

To understand what is involved in the care of your complexion, you must remember that the skin is composed of two layers, the outer of which is called the epidermis. The cells of this surface are constantly dying and being cast off and replaced by new ones from below. With these dead cells are mixed dust and dirt from the atmosphere and both watery and oily perspiration from the sweat glands.

The accumulation of all this on a thin film, if not promptly removed, which is liable to choke the mouths of the glands and interfere with the activity of the skin, but also, if neglected, throws an extra amount of work on the kidneys, which, if they are delicate, may break down under this extra load.

Needless to say, to apply any substance which may still further choke the pores makes matters worse. These pore-choking substances include powder, the grease of cooking or other dirty work, of dust and the soot from a street lamp, and the smoky atmosphere like that of Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and other soot cities.

Skins vary in thickness. The thicker, thicker epidermis will never have the rosy cheeks of one through whose skin the blood vessels show clearly. But the healthy, clear olive complexion of the dark woman has a beauty of its own and one which needs no artificial improvement.

It is the pasty paleness of ill-regulated life that makes a bad complexion.

Failure to observe regular habits of elimination soon makes its mark on the skin of the face, and late nights, lack of fresh air and exercise leave traces which an experienced physician can read as easily as a print.

Indiscretions of diet, especially in the direction of those foods so beloved of girl workers—buns, cakes and cups of tea instead of a good two-course meal—will quickly ruin the best complexion.

The girl who goes to bed early, takes an hour's walk or plays a good game every day, who eats sensibly and regularly, and has eight hours' sleep each night, will never need to give a thought to her complexion.

People who never forget to look after their bowels often fail to remember that the skin is also an extremely important organ of elimination, and that it must be kept in good working order if their health is to be maintained.

The care of the skin should be a matter of daily habit. The film composed of dead cells, grease and dirt should be removed regularly. It is rubbed off the body to a large extent by friction with the clothing, but it is far more efficiently dealt with by a daily bath followed by a brisk rubbing with a dry coarse towel.

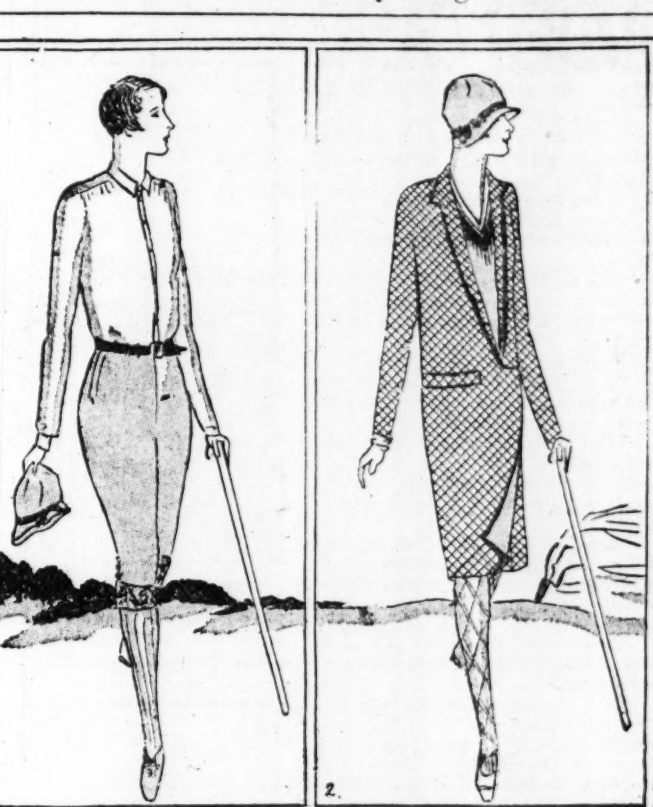

A good soap is a useful adjunct to the process, as it helps to dissolve and remove resistant dirt and has a very decided antiseptic action.

Naturally, whatever applies to the skin as a whole applies especially to the face, which should be washed nightly with warm water and soap and in the morning with cold water. Lillian Russell, the celebrated actress, renowned for her complexion, completed her morning ablutions by going over her face with a small cake of ice.

The glow this kindled and the comfort thus derived often prompted her to repeat the process several times a day.

FOLLIES OF FASHION By Marguerite Barnes

THE woman who has ceased to be hoisly slender and who wishes to be comfortably and practically dressed for the outdoors, while at the same time appearing slender and smart, should avoid the type of costume shown in Figure 1. The light tweed ensemble in Figure 2 is practical, has long, slender lines and is new. It has a wrap-around skirt, cut in one with short, straight bloomers (called a culotte skirt) and is worn over a short sweater-shirt and one undergarment. The straight stockings add to the length.

How to Have Shapely Arms

By Anne Jordan

WITH the sleeveless costumes that we now wear we certainly give a thought to the shape of our arms.

Here's an exercise for shaping the arms nicely. Stand with the arms straight out from the shoulder. Stretch one just as far as you can make them go, and spread the fingers, palms facing downward. Then, slowly bend the middle finger of each hand over until it forms an arc above the palm of the hands. And with the fingers held stiffly in this upward manner, turn the hand upward, bending at the wrist, and bringing the hand around slowly. When you have bent the hand over as far as it will go, holding the arms straight out at the side, bend back and keep revolving many times. Each day add to the number of times until you can do these exercises 40 times without tiring.

Then try the jack-knife with the arms, arms out, bending at elbows, and bringing hands back to the shoulders with hands doubled up. Next, raise the arms up over the shoulders and straight over the head, swinging them out and around, as though you were exercising with dumbbells. Massage is also very good to give a nice proportion to the arms. They should be massaged up from the wrists, rubbing gently, but very firmly, and in a rhythmic motion. The elbows are especially benefited by massage, and if they are very "rusty" they should be strapped with soft bandages and left overnight until they improve.

This Rule

In skin care is credited with bringing schoolgirl complexions to thousands

By NORMA SHEARER

THE modern rule for beauty is a simple one: a proved complexion soap and water to keep the skin and pores clean; "make-up," powder and rouge thoroughly cleared from the skin every night before bed.

Thus, largely on expert advice, millions use Palmolive Soap; touch their faces with no other. It is made of cosmetic oils. It is made for one purpose only—to protect and beautify the skin.

Wash the face gently with Palmolive. Massage its balmy olive and palm oil lather into the skin.

Rinse with warm water; then with cold. That is all—it's nature's rule for keeping that schoolgirl complexion. Do that regularly, and particularly at night. Note how much better your skin is even one week.

GET REAL PALMOLIVE. Costs but 10c a cake. Use no other on your face. But be sure you get GENUINE Palmolive. Crude imitations, represented to be of olive and palm oils, are not the same as Palmolive. REMEMBER that and TAKE CARE. The Palmolive-Pet Co., Chicago, U. S. A.

SHE seemed to stay tired. Dragging through the hours—her lightest task too heavy. . . . What was the matter? Why, she used to be full of life and energy! What trick of fate had stolen her health? Had sapped her strength and set her nerves on edge?

Constipation takes awful toll from thousands of men and women. It thieves vitality, it wrecks energy. It dulls the heart and drives the body to pain. It destroys beauty and health itself, and often leads to serious disease. Yet it can be so easily prevented—so surely relieved! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation—safely and promptly. To prevent this common curse ever starting its course.

ALL-BRAN vs. part-bran It has "bulk" that relieves constipation. ALL-BRAN is all bulk. This bulk absorbs moisture and carries it throughout the intestines, at the same time gently distending them—purifying, removing poisonous wastes. How different from part-bran products—in which the quantity of bulk is so small that there is seldom enough to be effective. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. Because it is 100% bran.

Beware of drugs! Contrast healthful ALL-BRAN with habit-forming pills and drugs, which often become useless unless the dose is constantly increased! ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream. And add fruits or honey for an extra treat. Let it soak in the milk for a few moments to bring out all its rich, nutty flavor. Serve it with other cereals. In soups. Try the recipes on every package. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Don't risk a part-bran substitute. Insist on genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, restaurants, cafeterias—on dining-cars. Made by the Kellogg Company in Battle Creek, Mich. Write for free "Treatise on Constipation."

Money in Hand, With Contributions in Sight, Adequate for Tornado Relief and Rehabilitation.

TOTAL PROBABLY WILL BE $800,000

Red Cross Issues Statement Praising Spirit of St.
Louis and the Service of Volunteers.

What St. Louis has given and is giving to its tornado sufferers, now certain to exceed $800,000, probably will suffice to meet the need, Red Cross officials said today. The amount recorded was $715,000 this morning, but some large contributions, such as employees' lists and proceeds of entertainments still to be held, will be added, as well as many smaller amounts.

A statement on this, issued by Bert H. Lang, chairman of the Red Cross Citizens' Disaster Relief Committee, and John G. Lonsdale and Richard S. Hawes, chairman and vice chairman of the Red Cross Finance Committee, follows:

"When the call was made for a $500,000 Red Cross relief fund it was felt that amount would probably be sufficient, but as a survey of the storm damage progressed it became apparent that a greater amount was needed.

"However, it is a pleasure to announce that the sum has now reached approximately $775,000, which will be supplemented by intended contributions and also entertainments which have been planned by various organizations and individuals. The proceeds of these entertainments will be turned over to the Red Cross relief and we feel we will receive sufficient funds for completion of the relief and rehabilitation program for the city of St. Louis in keeping with the Red Cross policies.

"We feel no greater evidence of civic spirit and human sympathy has ever been demonstrated in this country. We are voicing appreciation of the entire St. Louis Chapter American Red Cross, including that great army of volunteers who contributed so freely to our work thus far. We are particularly grateful to the press and broadcasting stations for their ever helpful assistance in this crisis."

Two more $1000 contributions to the relief fund are reported—from Butler Bros. and the Frank Adam

Paving Way for Rehabilitation.
The Red Cross organization is now striving to bring the emergency relief period to a temporary termination and the rehabilitation program which will be the work of months, can be started. P. H. Byrne, executive secretary of the St. Louis chapter, said that the duration of the emergency period was now a question of housing.

As soon as we can get a family into a home," Byrne said, "we can give them regulations for food and clothing until the wage earner gets to going again. When we have found every family a home of some kind, clothed them and given them fuel, we will declare the emergency

A survey on housing, made by 30 workers under direction of E. G. Steger, field service director, indicated that 50 families in the storm area still needed moving this morning. A dozen trucks were on the job, and it was hoped to complete the moving sometime tomorrow, and thus to end the emergency period and start rehabilitation work. This will include providing families with furniture and other things needed to restore it to former living conditions and earning capacity.

Free Advice About Insurance.

Forrest D. Donnell, head of the free legal advice service provided by the St. Louis Bar Association for torpedo sufferers, has asked that all the Red Cross workers inquire with holders of insurance policies not to enter into contracts for adjustment on insurance claims and not to make any unsatisfactory settlement with an insurance concern, and not to pledge any insurance money or Red Cross payment on an insurance claim without consulting either the free legal aid service of the Red Cross, or other lawyers.

The sufferers are also advised, if dodgers being distributed widely, to clear their mortgage and other financial problems to Red Cross headquarters.

The Fire Department patrol of 110 men, on duty in two shifts since the tornado Sept. 29, has been taken off this duty, because nearly all alarm boxes are now in
